LOVE'S TELEGRAM.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER,
BY PEARL EYTINGE.

With doubting heart the maiden stood,
And, leaning 'gainst the casement wide
Believed her absent lover would
Grow cold, and seek another bride.

For many weary days had passed;
She waited with a patience true,
Till hope had given up at last,
And Faith her constancy did rue.

When all at once a little bird
Perched lightly on the shining wire
As though her vain regret were heard,
And sang as if he'd never tire.

In all the stillness of the dawn,
That fills a city ere it wakes,
There comes one moment 'fore the morn,
When song of birds the silence breaks.

A message bringing of new day,
Of light and life, of Faith and Truth,
Of lovers who are far away,
Of earnest vows, and golden youth.

A knock. "Come in," the maiden said,
And, quickly lifting up the latch,
A lad approached with hurried tread,
And handed her a brief dispatch.

"Will soon be home." The simple words,
Brought joy and hope, and glad content,
And louder, sweeter sang the birds,
Rejoicing in the message sent.

"Will soon be home," they gaily trilled,
"Will soon be home," her heart replied;
And all the Summer air was filled,
With welcome for the bonnie bride.

ROWING FOR A KISS.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER,
BY J. L. McCARTHY.

I am an old professional oarsman at the present time, but I will not give you my name, as I do not care to have it printed. If I did publish it here, however, you would at once recognize it as a name famous in the world of boats and sculls; the name of an ex-champion oarsman, who had achieved almost world-wide fame in boating circles and who has been closely connected with aquatic events for the past seventeen years; one who has taken a leading part in all the principal contests and regattas that have occurred in that time, and who is still able to take part in a great many more. When I call myself an "old" oarsman in the opening sentence of this article, I do not mean that I am an aged, superanuated wielder of the oars. As a matter of fact, I am only four-and-thirty, and possessed of all my old-time strength and skill; but I call myself old in comparison with the oarsmen of the present day, who, for the most part, are young fellows—younger at least than the author of these lines. Strange as it may seem, I did not always have a liking for aquatic pursuits. This taste was developed in me quite by accident. My passion for the sea and for rowing began when I was seventeen years old. Previous to that time I had not the slightest interest in aquatic pastimes, or the least knowledge of boats and boating people. So defective was my boating education, indeed, that I could not tell a single-scull from a double-scull boat, or an out-rigger from a common row-lock, while the oars with which I have done so much since were as unfamiliar to my hands then as the pencil and brush of the artist or the chisel and mallet of the sculptor are now.

My story will serve to illustrate the peculiarities of life, and show how strangely a man may discover the sphere for which he is intended. It will show you how my inclinations turned in a direction utterly different from the one they should have turned in and, how a great oarsman was produced out of one who had not at first the least liking for the life. At about the period of which I write—that is, my seventeenth year—my health had not been good. I suffered greatly from diseases of the stomach and digestive organs, especially sick headaches, purely of a stomachic nature, which attacked me at semi-regular intervals. These headaches did not last for any great length of time, but they were very severe while they lasted, and I was completely prostrated during their occurrence. I was a student at the time, attending a large boarding-school located about three miles from S——, a bustling little city in the State of Massachusetts.

This school, which its proprie or called in his circulars and newspaper advertisements a "Scholastic Academy for Young Gentlemen," was kept by a Dr. Davis, a learned, benevolent-looking man of about fifty-five. He was a widower, his wife having been dead for some years, and the only relative that lived with him was his daughter, a bright, handsome girl of sixteen Summers. Clara Davis, at the age of sixteen, was the handsomest girl I had ever seen. Her face was perfectly moulded and her complexion was exquisitely blended pink and white; she had large, glorious blue eyes, fringed by long delicate lashes, and ripe red lips, which, when she laughed, disclosed a set of teeth as white and as perfect as pearls. A crown of rich golden hair, which she always wore in a tasty and becoming manner, completed her charms, which were enhanced by a naturally sweet disposition and polite, well-bred ways. She was the only child her father had ever had, and he was excessively fond of her. She was the queen of the school; every one of the fifty pupils swore undying affection for and allegiance to her, and, like the gallant knights of old, was ready to do battle in her behalf at the slightest call. Dr. Davis was a kindly man, who, although thoroughly aware of the virtues of a good education, was also alive to the necessities of a sound physical training. He believed in educating and training the body as well as the mind, knowing as a physician how essential to good health and study this was, and, with this object in view, he had a large gymnasium in the school, with numerous appliances for athletic purposes, while the grounds of the school were fitted in a similar manner, so that the pupils had ample exercise in doors and out. Rowing was another feature of the school's physical exercises, and the doctor encouraged it to a very great extent. Such an interest was taken in outdoor sports, indeed, that we had our baseball club, our football club and our boat club, all flourishing organizations, which participated in many local sports, always to their credit.

Whenever practicable I took ample exercise in the gymnasium, and the effect of this on my health was such that I went into athletic sports with great zest. I found that boating, however, suited me better than base or foot ball, and, becoming a member of the rowing club, I practiced daily with the oars. Our boating paraphernalia consisted of a few single boats, one four-oared and one eight-oared boat. The latter was the pride of the school, and its crew won many a prize in races with other clubs. The captain of the boat club was a youth named Gerald Weste. He was a handsome, fair-haired boy of seventeen, stalwart in build, with a frank, open countenance and bright blue eyes. He was the best oarsman in the school and in its vicinity, having defeated a number of rivals from the neighborhood, and it was in a great measure due to his able management that the boat club was as successful and victorious as it was. Why the boating world did not hear of Gerald in after years has always been a puzzle to me, but I often heard in those days that his ambition was to be a lawyer, and I suppose he is now successfully practising the profession of Coke and Blackstone in some community. I am convinced that he would have become a famous oarsman had he kept up his connection with oaric matters after school.

One Summer day the school was thrown into a flutter of excitement by the news that a grand regatta and baseball match were to take place in the neighboring city of S——, on the occasion of a local festival to be given by the authorities of that town. There were three entries for the baseball match and four for the regatta, among the former being our baseball club, and among the latter our rowing club. The other entries were by other clubs in the neighborhood, one of the clubs being from another school, situated about a mile from our school, and a great rival to Dr. Davis' establishment. These last entries interested us greatly, there being sharp rivalry between our school and the other, which was conducted by a Rev. Mr. Baker, and which strove continually to outdo us in everything. Great preparations were made for the regatta; we all went into it with great zest, our learned principal himself being as enthusiastic as any of us, while his pretty daughter, the belle of the school, fairly boiled over with enthusiasm. So enthusiastic was she, that she publicly proclaimed that, if her father's pupils were triumphant in the approaching games, she would give each of the victors a kiss of gratitude. This novel proposition evoked considerable amusement among the pupils, but nothing daunted, pretty Clara resolutely adhered to her offer, and was encouraged by her father. Gerald Weste in particular was much amused by Clara's proposition. "We must win those races," he remarked to me, "if only to see if Clara will keep her word. I'll wager a dollar she will back out when the time comes to fulfill her agreement."

We all took daily practice for a month before the races came off, under the able captaincy of Gerald Weste, and when the long-looked for day arrived at last we were in first rate condition and eager for the fray. The eventful day dawned clear, cool and pleasant, and we departed in high feather for S——. Arriving there we found that some of the other clubs which had entered for the races had not appeared for some reason, nor did they appear up to the hour when the races began, leaving the regatta to be rowed by our oarsmen and those of our scholastic rival. The first race on the programme was a single-scull contest for one mile, for which the only entries were Gerald Weste and an oarsman from Baker's, as we termed our rival school. There was a large and brilliant assemblage gathered to witness the regatta, including a considerable representation from both schools. Our principal and his pretty daughter occupied a post of honor among the spectators, and the latter smiled sweetly on Gerald Weste as, seated in his light, graceful shell, he rowed into position beside his rival and awaited the word to start. Gerald presented a handsome figure, arrayed in a trim boating-costume of blue and red, and at that moment evidently he found favor in Clara's sight.

A few words will suffice to describe the race. On the signal being given to start both oarsmen got away together, the delegate from Baker's school, who was famous among his fellows as an oarsman, evidently going in to win the race in short order, as he put in his best strokes from the very first. He was older and heavier than Gerald, and he rowed in a grand manner. He speedily forged ahead of Gerald, and, to our dismay, left him considerably in the rear. But the pace his opponent was rowing soon began to tell on him, he became fatigued and slackened his speed. Gerald observed this, and, putting on a tremendous spurt, he soon overtook the leader, and hung with him neck-and-neck until the stakeboat was reached. Both rounded the stakeboat together, and, as they steered for home, a lively race was furnished to the spectators. It was an even contest all the way home thereafter. Gerald kept close to his antagonist, and, although the latter tried his hardest, he could not succeed in shaking him off. Both were encouraged to do their utmost by the cheers of their friends. And how we did yell to Gerald! Finally, amid deafening applause, Gerald put on a tremendous spurt and forged ahead of his antagonist, becoming a clear winner by one boat length, and how we did yell when he was declared the winner! Pretty Clara seemed more pleased than anybody at Gerald's victory, and, as he smiled at her in what seemed to me a significant manner, she blushed and cast down her eyes in an embarrassed way.

The next race to occur was a four-oared contest, distance two miles. I took part in the race, rowing stroke and Gerald Weste rowed bow. We had trained especially good for this race, and were very confident of coming off victors. From the first we put in our best efforts, to such good effect that when we reached the stakeboat our opponents were considerably in the rear, nor did they succeed in overtaking us all the way home, and we won, greatly to our joy and disgust of the Bakers. Thus it was also with the concluding contest. This was an eight-oared race, distance the same as the last. Our crew was composed of the best oarsmen in the school, including Gerald Weste and myself. Well, luck seemed to favor us that day; we added the eight-oared race to our list of victories, and our triumph over the rival school was complete. It was a great day for us, for not only were we triumphant in the regatta, but we defeated the Bakers at baseball also. You can imagine how disgusted the latter were. As for us we were jubilant. When we got home we celebrated our victory with bon-fires and speeches, and had a glorious time generally.

The municipal officers of S—— presented us with the prizes which we had won, which were gold and silver cups, suitably inscribed, and very valuable; but the sweetest and richest prize of all was that which pretty Clara Davis promised us. Did she fulfill her promise? She did; like "a little man" she kept her word, and, although the dear girl blushed a good deal during the ordeal, this only served to make her look sweeter, and the kiss she gave each of us lingers in my memory to this day. Ah! dear Dr. Davis is dead now, and Clara is the happy wife of—who do you think, now? None other than your humble servant, the writer of these lines, who took such a fancy to rowing that he continued at it long after he reached man's estate, with what success the boating world can testify to. That is the story of how I became a famous oarsman, and how I won my greatest prize—my sweet Clara.

EDMUND POSSART, GERMAN ACTOR.

JAPANESE TRAGEDY.

It being conceded that complete illusion is as undesirable as it is unattainable, it becomes extremely difficult to decide where convention is to end and direct imitation to begin, and here the theatre of Japan flounders sadly. Scenery and adjuncts are to be conventional; all that regards the living performers is to be as near nature as may be. Here at least we have a broad rule—a plank to which we may cling, and yet it will be found that we are borne thereby into strange waters. We shake off, however, much Chinese buckrum. The wearisome recitative is lost, the monotonous chant on one note, the walk round to indicate change of place, the imaginary rope, and needle and thread. A tragedian performs hari-kiri, or disembowelment, with the most revolting details of blood-letting. His portrayal of violent death is as powerful and as horrible, with gurglings and leg shakings, as is Salvini's in the last act of "Othello." But when he is defunct the delineator (following John Chinaman) gets up and strolls away. "Since none suppose that I am really slain," he argues, "since I am no longer wanted, why should I waste my time?" It is no use to reply that by removing his corpse he mars the composition, that the picture becomes incomplete; for Japanese pictorial compositions are of set purpose fragmentary, ignoring the theory of balance.—Murray's Magazine.

THEATRICAL GET UP IN CHINA.

The dresses are superb, magnificently embroided, as interesting from an archæological as an artistic point of view, for it is usual (convention again) to attire stage heroes and heroines in garments of the period that precede the invasion of Tartars; a time when the mighty Ming Emperors held sway, when the nobles vied with each other in gorgeousness and eccentricity. This fantastic raiment is, I am told, scrupulously correct down to the smallest detail of button or tassel; while as to the artistic labor no trouble or expense is spared in rich silk and cunning gold work. As the play proceeds, actors who are not yet on, or who are waiting for the next piece, may be seen lounging in the greenroom, peering through the grile window, opium pipe in mouth—invisible, until they enter on the scene. Those who are not required at all have calmly gone to bed long since. Glimpses of half naked bodies coiled on mats may be obtained through the opening of the side tent sleeping peacefully despite the exertions of the orchestra. Oh! if those musicians were as merciful as strong! But Chinamen are not troubled with nerves, and delight in diabolical din. A play unaccompanied by a clatter that is so soul-harrowing and ceaseless as to cause the actors to bellow with all their force and lungs would be but a paltry pleasure. The words are spoken in a conventional recitative, or series of shouts, which is only broken in declaratory speeches. Females employ a high monotonous falsetto, walk with a peculiar sway of haunches and swing of arms and mincing steps—this to accentuate a difference of sex, all the performers being men. It is strange that, trammelled by so many disadvantages, choked and stifled by artificiality, the acting should be good. Gesture is graceful and fitting; by-play is excellenty suggestive, combined with dignified repose. Faces assume such fine and varying expressions as one would not look for on the flat, yellow visage of Mongoles; the important tirades, though bawled in a high key, are delivered with a just sense of musical elocution and relative value of sentences.—Murray's Magazine.

THE FINE ART OF BOUQUET-THROWING.

Surely bouquet-throwing ought to be practiced like any other difficult feat. For it is a difficult feat for a nervous young man in evening dress to throw a conglomeration of floral blossoms, as high as a cabbage and about as heavy, at the toes of an actress separated from him very often by half a dozen rows of stalls, not to mention the orchestra and footlights. For the bouquet to fall clumsily at the feet of the wrong actress is quite a common incident, and for it to miss fire altogether and roll back helplessly onto the big drum or into a fiddler's lap is not an infrequent one. I have seen desperate young "Johnnies," too, get awfully red in the face as they have hurled guinea bouquets with such force as to all but knock the breath out of the body of the unfortunate actress.

GRIMALDI'S FATHER.

Joe Grimaldi was scarcely eight years old when his father died. Not long before the eccentric Giuseppe had feigned death in order to test the affection of his two sons. One day he instructed the servant to tell the boys as soon as they came home from rehearsal that he had suddenly expired, but first of all they were to be brought into the darkened room where he lay stretched out beneath a sheet, so that he might hear how they took the news. Joe, suspecting a trick, began to roar lustily, but his brother danced and sang with delight at the prospect of being released from their tormentor. Up sprang the sham and infuriated corpse, and oh, the thrashing that unhappy junior received for his want of filial affection! while the more artful Joseph was caressed and rewarded.—The Gentleman's Magazine.

TO GIVE THE CUE.

"To give the cue" is a common phrase. According to most dictionaries, "cue" (in its theatrical sense) is derived from the Latin "cauda," through the French "queu," and the same authorities say that it means the last words of a speech which the actor, who has to reply, catches and regards as a notice to begin. This theory is, perhaps, supported by the fact that, in French theatrical phrases, what we call the "cue" is styled the "replique." But Mr. Wedgewood maintains that the above etymology is quite erroneous. He says that "cue" is derived from "Q," the first letter of the Latin "quando," which used to be marked on the Roman players' parts to show when they were to enter and speak.

THOUGHT HE WAS SOUND.

"So, Bob, you intend to give up theology, eh?"

"Yes, uncle."

"What have you decided upon, instead?"

"Baseball. I am convinced that there are no $5,000 salaries for me in the ministerial field, and there may be on the diamond field."

"Bob, I think you are right."

Special Notice to Correspondents.

Some of our correspondents have acquired the habit of using in their letters the terms "last week," "this week," "next week," "to-day," "to-morrow," "Monday," "Tuesday," etc., instead of giving the requisite date and the month. We trust this notice will be sufficient to correct the error into which our correspondents have fallen.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 18.—"Jack" was done at the Baldwin Theatre evening of 12, with Florence Roberts in the role originally intended for Kate Forsyth, who was too ill to appear. The house held a large audience, and the piece seemed to please. It will continue until further notice.

BUSH-STREET THEATRE.—A royal welcome was accorded Charley Reed last evening, as Old Sport, in "A Rag Baby." The house was packed at an early hour. The outlook seems good for immense business during the stay of this troupe.

"Sophia" and "Phryne" Receive their First Bostou Performances—Crowded Houses Rule at all Places in the Hub.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 18.—Manager Field gave his patrons the best thing he has yet given this season, when he played "Sophia" last evening. This is not great praise, surely, but it's true. "Sophia" is one of those English productions with a stream of comedy lines percolating the dialogue from curtain to curtain-fall. Act three witnesses a climax of comedy situations, when the trio of women are concealed in different apartments of Hero's chambers. Old as this situation is, it caught heavily, and showed conclusively the bent of the public mind. "Sophia" is liable to draw profitably for three weeks, possibly four—not more. It was a capital first night's performance, very few hitches occurring. G. W. Wilson has a particularly fat role as Partridge, making quite a hit. Willie Seymour presented a tip-top portraiture of a quaint illiterate country squire. It was a first-rate character hit, but he has a unique and somewhat "queer" facial make-up. Chas. Barron carried Tom Jones through all his tribulations in his customary serious style. Annie Clarke had a rather unushal part as the gay, scheming widow, but she did full justice to it. Young Ed. Davenport gave a consistently villainous rendition of a snake-like character as Blifil. Helen Dayne was an arch serving-maid, and Mrs. Farren, in an intelligent presentation of a susceptible spinster-role, gave evidences of filling Mrs. Vincent's shoes to a certain degree. The house was crowded, and the audience appeared to highly relish the production.....Dion Boucicault found a big audience at the Hollis awaiting to applaud all the good points in his newly-named "Phryne." The drama was well enacted by an excellent company, although the plot presented no points particularly new. There were suggestions of a couple of society plays in "Phryne's" plot. Helen Bancroft, Atkins Lawrence, Fritz Williams and the star himself, of course, by his natural wit, all appeared to excellent advantage.....Kidder's "Philopene" was a good vehicle for Myra Goodwin to utilize in exhibiting her specialties at the Park last night. She had a large audience, and they did not leave the theatre displeased by any means.....The Grand Mogul" drew a good-sized house at the Globe, and French scholars say it was a splendid performance.....Louis Aldrich got in the usual Monday audience at the Howard, and one wouldn't suppose anybody had ever witnessed the play, judging by the thunderous applause.....The Boston, Bijou and Windsor enjoyed prosperity, and so all hands were happy in the Hub last night.

Milwaukee Openings Draw Good Houses.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 18.—A large audience, lavish in its applause, greeted Rosina Vokes at the Academy.....Beatrice Lieb opened her tour at the Grand Sunday. "Infatuation" was done to a fair house. It was light last night. Her support is fair, and for a first performance ran smoothly. Two members, owing to a bridge, missed the train in Chicago, so there was no matinee. This incident slightly marred Miss Lieb's work.....May Fisk is on hand at the People's. Very well.....The Museum was full. The Romalo Bros. found the stage too low to work, and had to close after the afternoon performance. Nestor Bros. fill out the bill. Charles and Carrie Moore, claimed by both the Museum and the People's, play at the latter house.

Kompe, in advance of Frederic Bryton, did some tall hustling for their respective companies here last week.

Prof. Baldwin Beats the Record.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

QUINCY, Ill., Oct. 18.—Prof. T. S. Baldwin scored the highest jump ever made Oct. 12 at the Fair Grounds. At precisely 3.35 P. M. he made the ascent with his balloon without any basket attachment, hanging to the bottom ring of the balloon. When jumping into space he had attained the height of eight thousand feet. The ropes of his parachute had become tangled in some manner, and made it behave badly, it not filling up very fast at first, but when filled it almost stood still, thereby causing his descent to last fully ten minutes, and landing him about ten miles from where he started. He arrived in this city at 7 o'clock P. M. 12, safe and sound.

WORLD OF AMUSEMENT.

— Sig. Italo Campanini, Charles Dickens and Nettie Carpenter (violinist) arrived from Europe Oct. 16.

— E. W. Cobb, formerly at the Cass House and later at the Bidells, will be the manager of the new Casino Theatre, Detroit, Mich., of which H. N. Williams is the proprietor. The theatre is centrally located, and no expense has been spared in its building to make it one of the handsomest and most commodious houses in the West. T. H. Winnett is the New York representative.

— James C. Vincent, of the "Arizona Joe" Co., was called home Oct. 12 on account of the death of his brother, Dr. C. H. Rooney, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

— Bertha Noss, of the Noss Family, has so far recovered from her late illness as to be able to fill her usual place in the company.

— After their Philadelphia engagement this week, Winnett's "Passion's Slave" Co. will visit Baltimore and Washington, and then start West on an extensive tour.

— George H. Abbott is now in advance of the Noss Family.

— J. W. Randolph, manager of the Ida Siddons Burlesque Co., is to manage the Grand Opera-house (King-street Theatre), Lancaster, Pa., of which R. C. McCulley & Co. are proprietors.

— Mrs. Josie Rooney presented to the rollicking Pat Rooney, her husband, a baby girl Oct. 14, in Philadelphia, Pa.

— "Oolah," Sydney Rosenfeld's comic-opera was read to the No. 1 Casino Co. last week, at the Globe Theatre, Boston, Mass. Some of the parts were assigned; rehearsals will soon commence, and the opera will probably be done at the Casino on the return of the company from their present road-tour. "Erminie" will be revived for a short time, and "Oolah" will then be put on. It would seem that the long interview between Manager Aronson and Francis Wilson, in the latter's dressing-room at the Boston Globe, settled the fate of "Oolah."

— Harry Edwards, formerly treasurer of the Seymour-Stratton Co., will in the future be in advance of that company.

— Charles H. Haystead, manager of Brown's Comedy Co., in which Josie Mills is starring, reports business as very good.

— "A Close Shave" is delineated by the following people: Marie Cahill, Helen A. Soule, May Haines, Lillian Leach, John W. Palmoni, Eugene Douglas, Gilmore Scott, Percy S. Leach, Will T. Burnside.

— Carrie Oakes Rose has retired from the Frank Daniel's "Little Puck" Co.

— Mrs. Annie E. Inman, mother of Belle Inman, and a member of the Maude Atkinson Co., was banqueted on the twenty-fourth anniversary of her marriage, Oct. 6, at Marshalltown, Ia., by the members of the company.

— W. I. Bishop, the mind-reader, who is under contract with M. B. Leavitt for a California tour has met with such success in San Francisco that his stay has been extended from one week, as originally intended, to an indefinite period. At the close of the present tour on the Pacific Coast, Mr. Leavitt will send Mr. Bishop to Mexico.

— Thomas L. Brooks, Irish comedian, was held for trial by Justice Gorman at the Jefferson Market, this city, Oct. 18, charged with attempting to defraud Charles E. Brehm, a costumer, of wardrobe valued at $125.

— During the performance of Barry & Fay's Co. at Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 15, a fire occurred near the Opera-house, causing a slight panic among the audience.

— An attachment has been issued in this city against the property of Charles B. Poore, purchaser of the American rights of "The Lights of London," from Harry Lee, for which he agreed to give $3,000 and five per cent. of the gross receipts, neither of which, it is claimed, has been paid.

— The Criterion Opera Co. are having a run of bad luck in Ohio. Before leaving Fremont for Springfield the manager is alleged to have departed, leaving the hotel bills and salaries unpaid.

Maurettus, Louis O'Dell, Holmes Grover Jr., James P. Allicote, Robert Barrett, William Morse, Chas. Harding and Robert Strange.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

WASHINGTON.—At Albaugh's Grand Opera-house, several weak attractions have made the season so far anything but successful. Good galleries were about all that witnessed the very creditable "Joan of Arc" by Maude Banks' Co., whose engagement closed Oct. 15. Kate Castleton, commencing 17, will probably turn the tide.

NEW NATIONAL THEATRE.—"Nanon," by the Carleton Opera Co., drew large houses for the first three nights of the past week. Their "Merry War," however, did not do so well. Week of 17, F. B. Warde.

HARRIS' BIJOU THEATRE.—Minnie Oscar Gray chronicled another big week's business in the history of this house, ending 15. "Passion's Slave" this week.

KANSAS.

ATCHISON.—At Price's Opera-house, Halladay's Georgia Minstrels Oct. 5, 6, did only a fair business, but a better minstrel show had not appeared in Atchison for a long time. The house remains dark till 13, when Modjeska will be seen in "As You Like It," at advance prices. The Hanlons' "Le Voyage en Suisse" 17 is billed like a circus. N. C. Goodwin Jr. 18 will do a big business. Rice's "Evangeline" 19 will come in for its share of the business. The balance of the bookings for October are: Agnes Herndon 24, W. J. Scanlan 26, Katie Putnam 27, Vernona Jarbeau 29, Mattie Vickers 31.....Gus Moulton, agent for "Le Voyage en Suisse," was in town 10.

NEWTON.—The attractions for this week are: New York Ideal Opera Co. Oct. 17, 18. McIntyre & Heath's Minstrels came 5 to good paying business. Harry Latour, agent for Agnes Herndon, was here 10. Mr. Latour leaves the Herndon Co. 15 to go in advance of Mattie Vickers' Co. "A Plum Pudding" comes 24, Mattie Vickers 27.

FORT SCOTT.—At Patterson's Opera-house, the New York Ideal Opera Co. came Oct. 21, 22, 23. "Two Old Cronies" 10, 11, did good business. "A Boy Hero" 12, 13, had poor business, and they have had hard luck for some time. They have disbanded for want of funds.....Doris & Colvin's Show had only fair business 14.

HUTCHINSON.—The regular season opened Oct. 4, with the New York Ideal Opera Co., who met with much success. Agnes Herndon in "A Commercial Tourist's Bride" 13 did an excellent business. Mattie Vickers 14, 15.

LEAVENWORTH.—At Crawford's, Oct. 7, 8, Halladay's Minstrels had good houses, although it was rainy and bad. Booked: Modjeska in "As You Like It" 15, N. C. Goodwin Jr. 17 in "Turned Up," Rice's "Evangeline" 18.

TOPEKA.—At Crawford's Opera-house Oct. 17, Rice's "Evangeline." Halladay's Minstrels 10, 11, and Modjeska in "Dona Diana" 14 did well.

GEORGIA.

AUGUSTA.—Baird's Minstrels appeared here Oct. 10 in Clinch Rifles Armory, which we are forced to use as a theatre for the present. A good house greeted them. Mrs. D. P. Bowers appeared to a fair audience 13 in "Madame Crœsus." The stage of the Armory is too small to allow of the proper setting of scenery. Mrs. Bowers was the unlucky star that last appeared in our ill-fated theatre, which was destroyed by fire last February, and where she lost almost her entire wardrobe, etc. ..... T. K. Burk's New United Ten-cent Circus opened here 14 to so many people that they had no place to accommodate them.

ATLANTA.—Ezra F. Kendall will appear in "A Pair of Kids" at De Give's Oct. 17, remaining through 19. Florence Bindley opened to light business, 10 in "Excitement," closing 11, to full house in "Heroine in Rags." Barry & Fay's "Irish Aristocracy" caught splendid business 12, 13. Mrs. D. P. Bowers came 14, 15, to good houses. "Queen Elizabeth" was first given, then "Lady Audley's Secret" and "Madame Crœsus." MacCollin Opera Co. is announced for 20-22 T. W. Keene 24, 25, Cora Van Tassel 28, and Haverly's Minstrels 31, Nov. 1. Hyams' Specialty Co., at Concordia Hall, have played to fair business only; they remain another week, closing Oct. 22..... The Piedmont Exposition is a great drawing card, and immense crowds are in attendance.

MACON.—Burk's Ten-cent Circus were here Oct. 10, 11, 12, occupying the City Hall Hill. Their dates were 10, 11, but the audiences were so large (many people being turned away) that they remained another day. They had packed and jammed tents during all of their six performances.....Baird's Mammoth Minstrels had a full house at the Academy 13. T. W. Keene will be here 19.

OHIO.—[See Page 505.]

PARK THEATRE.—Effie Ellsler came 17 for one week. Next week, Richard Mansfield. Arthur Rehan's Co. did a fair business last week.

CLEVELAND THEATRE.—The Kimball Comedy Co. in "Mam'zelle" opened 17 for one week. Edmund Collier is due 24. "My Aunt Bridget" couldn't entertain all the people who flocked to her levees last week. "Standing-room Only" hung on the outer wall every night.

COLUMBIA THEATRE.—Maude Banks in "Joan of Arc" commenced a week's engagement 17, to be followed by Marguerite St. John in "As in a Looking-glass" 24. "On the Rio Grande" closed a very good week's business 15.

"ALVIN JOSLIN'S" WOES.

Charles L. Davis, writing from Butte City, Mon., under date of Oct. 5, has the following to say regarding the seizure of his diamonds by the officials of that town:

"When I arrived in this city I learned that a number of the citizens were anxious to witness my diamond display, so I placed them on exhibition in one of the principal store windows. While on my way to supper one of the clerks came running up to me, and said there was trouble. I immediately went to the store, and found the County Treasurer with my big diamond-ring on his finger. The assessor was also there, and demanded $900, which I declined to pay, and denounced the affair as an outrage; but they wanted my money to swell the treasury (the town hasn't even a hotel). I declared my intention of fighting the case, and immediately procured the best legal talent I could. They would not even accept bonds from some of their most prominent citizens, who were ready to stand sponsor for me. They wanted money, and would take nothing else, so I had to leave the amount demanded, and have commenced suit to recover the same. Prominent citizens pronounce the affair an outrage. My lawyers feel confident of winning, and say the case is one of up-and-up robbery. Now, the Montana law is: 'Any person coming into the territory, if only to stay ten minutes, the assessor can seize upon any diamonds or jewelry.' They can also attach instruments of musicians; your making your living with them does not exempt you. I was taxed $7,500 on my band, and yet the three city bands are not taxed a cent. It is traveling people and theatrical companies who have to pay, and a stranger staying only one day is also taxed. If traveling companies must come this way, I would advise them to leave all jewelry behind, as well as musical instruments. When I told the assessor I thought it was robbery, he only said: 'Oh, you'll make it all up to-night.' I will let you know how my case turns out, and in the meantime managers would do well to take warning."

CIRCUS AND SIDESHOW.

BURT WILSON, writing from Buenos Ayres, S. A., anent the business of Fryer's United Shows, says: "For the past year, under name of Fryer's New United Shows, we have made a most successful tour, financially and artistically, of the East India Islands, including Siam, where the managers were presented with a baby elephant from His Majesty, the King of Siam. Returning to Australia last January, the show was run in conjunction with Willard's Japanese Village, playing Melbourne, Sydney and the show towns of New Zealand, leaving the latter colony May 28 for Rio de Janeiro with a company of nearly sixty people, opening in that city the end of June, inside a building as would be a credit to any large city in the States, and having a magnificent garden attached, where the beautiful Japanese houses were erected. "S. R. O." was the order of things the first two weeks, the place being literally besieged on Sundays—the great holiday. Closing a brilliant four weeks' season the show opened in Buenos Ayres the first week of August in the Garden Florida, and has just closed a brief but financially successful season. During the stay here the ponies, dogs and goats were considered such a novelty, being a new departure on the old circus routine, that many liberal offers were made for their purchase, eventually being sold to the Carlo Brothers' Circus for a good sum, this event naturally altering the arrangements of the show, which in future will only comprise the Japanese and Lew Shillito, the musical clown, showing in theatres in coast towns, working their way to New York, where they expect to arrive early in November. J. B. Gaylord, as manager in advance, with D. J. Fitzgerald, are running the show, with P. W. Willard as a silent partner. They trust to the novelty of the Japanese Village for success. R. W. Fryer sails to-day (Aug. 22) for New York, going right to his home in Iowa for the Winter. The boys belonging to Australia return via England; those from the States return there. All are loud in their praises of the liberal treatment they have received at the hands of Managers Gaylord & Fitzgerald, hearty God-speeds being freely exchanged on the departure of the company for Montevideo. I found myself the possessor of a new silk hat, a necktie and gold pin presented by J. B. Gaylord and Len Shillito as slight mementoes of the pleasant relations existing between us. Shillito is doing a great act, being a favorite everywhere. Though he had a bad spell of illness here, he has regained his health, and hopes to continue improving. As for myself, I intend remaining here two months longer, completing my Spanish studies, with the intention of returning here at some future date. The Carlo Brothers—George and Fred—both well known through the States, have been located in South America the past four years, dividing their time between Rio and here. At present they control a very neat and compact show, doing a good business in a new theatre built to their order. Charles Connelli's Troupe of Japanese, and Frank Brown, an English clown speaking Spanish fluently, form the principal attractions this month. They expect to conclude their season in Buenos Ayres about November, and are busy fitting up for the road, proposing to show the interior towns, as everything in the Argentine Republic is booming, putting fossilized members of humanity in mind of the gold days in California. Two splendid Italian-opera companies are at the Colon and Politheama Theatres, a Spanish dramatic company at the National, a French opera-bouffe company at the Varieties, and sundry small shows, all doing good business. I expect to arrive in New York in November.

LION TAMING.—M. Pezon (says The Saturday Review), who has just retired from business, was, with one exception, the greatest lion-tamer in the world. The exception is M. Bidel, who continues to exercise his marvelous control over the monarch of the woods. The most interesting fact in M. Pezon's career is that he never used a whip. His method was, in the political slang of the day, conciliation, and not coercion. He adopted persuasive methods, and his success with lions was extraordinary. Tigers, he candidly confessed, he could not manage so well. Kindness, it seems, does not appeal to the tiger, whether of the human or the feline species, and cruelty M. Pezon would not use. If he had, he would probably have failed. The experience of all persons who have taken part in the training of animals is in this respect pretty much the same. They may be beaten into stupidity, but they cannot be kicked into cleverness. Thus the sight of tricks well performed by any sort of beast, from the dancing dog which Dr. Johnson ungallantly compared to oratorical women to Prof. Crocker's hideously-named "Equirationals," may be enjoyed without scruple by the most humane and scrupulous spectator. They cannot have involved any real suffering on the part of the performers, and they have probably given them a good deal of pleasure in the process of acquisition. Opinions will, of course, differ as to the value of lions when they have been tamed. There are those who do not care for the society of anything living which is not also human. Some, again, have for carnivorous quadrupeds a dislike which they cannot shake off, even at the dictates of morality or religion. Others who have no objection to the eating of flesh, provided it is not their own, agree with Bottom, that "there is not a more fearful wild fowl than your lion living," and give the creature a wide berth. When Cuvier was interrupted in the course of his learned labors by the apparition of the devil, he was at first somewhat startled. But a moment's examination reassured him. "Cloven hoof! Graminivorous," he observed, and went on writing serenely. M. Pezon cares no more for a lion than Cuvier cared for a cow. Indeed, M. Pezon had a pet lion which accompanied him on his walks at Versailles, greatly to the terror of the inhabitants. M. Pezon despises this unworthy panic, for which he can see no reason. His lion is quite harmless, and he expects the public to know that as well as himself. In one of the most charming pictures ever painted Carpaccio has portrayed the grotesque alarm of the monks when St. Jerome enters the garden of the monastery, followed by a very demure and decorous lion. The premises are dotted with cowled figures, but it is evident that in half a minute the coast will be clear and St. Jerome left alone with his alarming friend. St. Jerome not only founded, if we may believe Bishop Thirlwall, the broad-church school, but he also made the great discovery that a lion is only a cat, after all. Praed called his brother members in the House "just Eton boys grown heavy," and a similar relation appears to subsist between the feline and the leonine nature. The cat grown heavy is a cat still, and cats, as all their friends are agreed, may be coaxed into anything. If it be objected that tigers are cats also, we can only reply that there are different kinds of cats, and that the polecat, for example, is not a gentle or agreeable beast. Why Frenchmen should not get on especially well with lions is a problem which may be variously solved. The fact seems to be so. The greatest lion-tamer that ever lived, greater than M. Bidel or M. Pezon, was French. Victor Hugo would have no difficulty in answering the question. He would have said: "The lion is the king of beasts. The Frenchman is the king of men. Let the nations tremble when the immeasurable republic speaks," etc. M. Pezon, however, though he dislikes tigers, does not confine his attentions to lions. He puts forth his influence over the elephant, and it follows him and harkens to his word. It is like our human conceit to call the elephant sagacious. If he were really sagacious, and not merely amenable to buns, he would lift up his horn, or rather his paw, and we miserable mortals should flee before him. If M. Pezon takes his tame lion into private life with him he will avoid the danger of being bored which besets all ex-celebrities, and will not follow the example of the retired tallow chandler who felt himself compelled to revisit scenes of past delight on melting days.

NEW YORK.

New York City.

REVIEW OF THE WEEK.—Mr. Abbey's debut as manager of the new stock at WALLACK'S was made Tuesday evening, Oct. 11, under not altogether happy circumstances. There was, of course, a brilliant audience, though not all the seats were filled, strangely enough; and there was no end of praise for the several improvements effected in the body of the house. The disappointment of the night was confined entirely to the play—Sydney Grundy's three-act comedy-drama, "The Mouse Trap," which here had its first performance on any stage. We have already given a good synopsis of the piece. It was carefully acted, and was staged with rare good taste, Mr. Abbey's first effort in the latter direction eliciting flattering comment. But, in spite of the excellence of its embellishments, "The Mouse Trap" could not win anything like general favor. It is a play rich in promise and weak in execution; its finished literary texture is wasted in the mazes of an improbable plot, absurd situations and almost stupid characterizations. Rose Coghlan and Osmond Tearle—both of whom were warmly welcomed to the stage of their chiefest successes—were unable to create interest in their entirely commonplace roles, and Mrs. Abbey (Florence Gerard—her first American appearance in over three years) was equally unfortunate as the treacherous husband-poisoner. The hit of the play was achieved by Charles Groves, who, for the first time since his American work began, gave proof that his English fame had been fairly earned. His portrayal of the crusty physician who is the good genius of the drama, was a most excellent piece of work—natural, brusque, quietly humorous and always effective. E. D. Ward made his debut in a character so puerile that to attempt to measure his ability by his performance of it would be manifestly unfair. For the sake of the record, we append the full cast: Lord Normantower, Osmond Tearle; Sir Peter Lund, Charles Groves; Philip Selwyn, E. D. Ward; Tom Verinder, Sam Sothern; Kate Derwent, Rose Coghlan; Beatrice Selwyn, Mrs. Abbey; Mildred Selwyn, Enid Leslie. "The Mouse Trap" will shortly be withdrawn to make place for "Caste," with which charming comedy the new regime at Wallack's will, properly speaking, find an auspicious inaugural. The new staff at Wallack's is: Stage-manager, T. W. Robertson; acting-manager, C. H. Mathews; assistant acting-manager, C. F. Chatterton; box-office, Howard Perry; leader, C. F. Wernig; scenery, P. W. Goatcher. ....The novelty of the week at the THALIA was the American debut, night of 15, of August Junkermann as Zacharias Braesig in "Inspector Braesig." An immense audience greeted Herr Junkermann, who is a German comedian of the highest rank. He was capably supported by Manager Amberg's dramatic division of the Thalia's numerous force. .....There was no change of bill at the ACADEMY, CASINO, UNION-SQUARE, MADISON-SQUARE, DALY'S, STANDARD, LYCEUM, NIBLO'S, FIFTH-AVENUE and BIJOU. At the last-named house Salsbury's Troubadours finished their three weeks' season of "The Humming Bird" 15, to fairly good business. ..... At the STAR the final week of the engagement of the Grau French-opera Co. was marked by a novelty night of 14—the first performance in this country, in French, of "Fatinitza." Julia Bennati sang the title-role, and the evening was billed as a benefit to her.....The first week of the Fall and Winter season at HARRIGAN'S PARK with the revived "Leather Patch" as the attraction, drew quite good audiences.....Week stands were closed 15, as follow: Effie Elisler, in "Woman against Woman," at the WINDSOR; "The Golden Giant," by the Rankins at the GRAND; Sheehan & Coyne's Co., in "Grogan's Elevation," at TONY PASTOR'S; Poore's "Lights o' London" Co. at the HARLEM COMIQUE; the "Clio" Co., at H. R. JACOBS' THIRD-AVENUE, and Ada Gray's "East Lynne" Co., at Poole's.....The first week of French & Sanger's "Harbor Lights" Co., at the PEOPLE'S, was one of considerable profit, we should judge.....Minnie Palmer's houses at the FOURTEENTH-STREET were of good size, also. Her engagement closes 22.....The METROPOLITAN OPERA-HOUSE was dark.....At DOCKSTADER'S business continued very good. A. C. Moreland, interlocutor, missed one or two performances, and Stage-manager E. N. Slocum—a handy man in all ways—acceptably filled his place.

JOHN STETSON'S lease of the Fifth-avenue Theatre expires with the close of Frederic Bryton's engagement there, which begins Easter-week and continues four weeks. Eugene Tompkins then becomes lessee of the house, and J. P. Reynolds, at present Mrs. Langtry's business-agent, will be acting-manager. The building adjoining the theatre on Twenty-eighth street has been sold by Mrs. Gilsey to the Gilsey boys, and after the expiration of Mr. Tompkin's lease, in 1890, the stage will be transferred to the spot now occupied by the house, so that it will directly face the Broadway entrance.

IT is reported that after the present season the Star Theatre will take its place among the popular-priced houses of the city, under the management of Abbey, Schoeffel & Grau, as a first-class combination house. The present plans contemplate a complete rebuilding of the auditorium, as a new floor will be laid, new and more comfortable chairs provided, and, possibly, the removal of the boxes, to make room for more seats. If the schemb is finally adopted the prices will be 25, 50, 75 cents and $1. J. S. Schoeffel, the present manager, will remain in charge.

Harding in the annex halls; Hugh Murphy, giant, and the Leopard children, curiosities. Business is on the increase. Geo. O. Starr is getting in his fine "booming" work in the way of novel ideas of advertising.

UNION-SQUARE THEATRE.—"The Henrietta," with Stuart Robson and W. H. Crane, is a pronounced go. No change of bill is likely during the stay of these favorite comedians. Edmund Passart follows them at the Union-square, making his American debut Christmas. Manager J. M. Hill, J. Jay Brady and other friends of J. C. Roach went to Worcester, Mass., Oct. 17, to give that Irish actor a "send off" on his starring tour in "Dan Darcy," reference to which is made in our Telegraphic News, on the second page of this issue.

PEOPLE'S THEATRE.—"Harbor Lights" (by the French & Sanger Co.) entered its second and final week Oct. 17. Gillette's "Held by the Enemy" Co., No. 1, week of 24, and "A Rag Baby" 31 and week.

A SPECIAL MATINEE of "As in a Looking-glass" will be given at the Fifth-avenue Theatre Oct. 25, by Mrs. Langtry's Co., for the benefit of the Actors' Fund.

THATCHER, PRIMROSE & WEST'S MINSTRELS make their first city appearance this season Oct. 24 and week, at the Grand Opera-house.

WHEN "Caste" is produced at Wallack's, T. W. Robertson, son of the author of the play, will make his American debut as Sam Gerridge. Charles Groves will appear as Old Eccles, Rose Coghlan as Esther, Florence Gerard as Polly, Osmond Tearle as George D'Alroy, Mme. Ponisi (her return to the city from Boston) as the Marquise, and E. D. Ward as Capt. Hawtree.

HARRIGAN'S PARK THEATRE.—"The Leather Patch" has opened in an auspicious manner the regular season at this house. It has a month longer to run before Mr. Harrigan will put on "Pete" for the first time on any stage.

W. B. ROYSTON, who is to go on the road with E. H. Sothern in "The Highest Bidder," is now playing Lawrence Thornhill at the Wednesday matinees at the Lyceum Theatre, replacing J. W. Piggot, who goes to Wallack's.

ABOUT five hundred members of the Manhattan Athletic Club assembled in the parlors of their house Oct. 15, upon the occasion of their first musical of the season. The event was a success, and adds one more gala-night to the club's long list. The following gentlemen took part in the exercises: E. A. Summers, Prof. J. F. Moquist, Marshall P. Wilder, Dr. E. F. Hoyt, Bronson Howard, Howard McNutt, James S. Burdette, Chevalier Niedzielski and J. E. McWade.

KOSTER & BIAL'S held a large audience evening of Oct. 15, when the following people appeared: Annie Boyden, Acme Quartet, Florence French, Signora F. De Costa, Sepp'l Tyrolean Trio, Hattie Howard, Viola Shelbyden and Fred Barr, Lottie Aldine, Alma Bellini and Theo Hoch. It was a well-arranged entertainment, and cordial receptions were accorded the performers, Annie Boyden, Theo. Hoch, Hattie Howard, the Tyrolean Trio, Florence French and Signora F. De Costa being specially remembered. B. Borjes introduced an electrical novelty in the lithophone. Master Belzac and Catherine Nelson were added Monday evening, 17. Weekly changes will take place in the list of performers. The Galatea illusion, in the upper hall, remains an attractive feature.

LONDON THEATRE.—Afternoon and evening of Oct. 17 this popular East-side house held large audiences. Robert Recker's fine orchestra were heard in fine shape, with their overture from "Heart and Hand." "Burglar Alarm," brought into prominence Bob Harrison, J. A. Toole, G. M. Brennan and Nellie Parker. The Newcomb Trio danced themselves into popular favor. Lawlor and Thornton were happily placed in their highly-creditable changes. John and Nellie Healy were warmly welcomed, the dancing of the lady going well, as usual. Morello Bros. sustained their high reputation as acrobats and equilibrists. Bob Harrison easily amused with his "Peculiarities." The Four Tourists introduced "Busted;" their singing went well. Nellie Parker vocalized to the pleasure of all, and made her usual hit. Hamlin and Hamlin "got there" with their song-and-dance turn. W. J. Ashcroft, an artist of rare accomplishments, is retained another week. He made his debut in this city evening of Oct. 11, and achieved the most pronounced success. He is a fine character-artist and vocalist, as well as one of the cleverest dancers seen here in many a day, the refinement of his act being strongly in his favor. "Domestic Difficulties," with Joe Campbell, Lou F. Shaw and Maggie Evans, closed the entertainment. The names of Ward and McBride were on the bills, but, as Mr. Ward did not put in an appearance, either at rehearsal or performance, they were canceled. Next week, Andy Hughes' Co.

MINER'S BOWERY THEATRE.—A well-filled house evening of Oct. 17 extended hearty greetings to George and Marie Nelson, Kelly and Ashby, James Gray, Fannie Beane and Chas. Gilday, Lottie Gilson, the Tissots, Homer and Lingard, Geo. W. Earle and F. Miles, Dick Morosco and Kitty Gardner, Virginia Trio, Layman and Prof. H. J. Campbell's tableaux soleil. It was a well-arranged programme, and met a hearty reward. A lively afterpiece closed the bill. Next week, Harry Williams' Own Co. will be on hand, with Ferguson and Mack, Lawrence Sisters, Fontaine, Edgelo, Horseshoe Four, Topack and Steel, Imro Fox, Conway and Leland, and Frank and Lillian White.

MINER'S EIGHTH-AVENUE THEATRE.—Harry and John Kernell's Co. are here this week, and the potency of these two names was the cause of the house being packed at an early hour evening of Oct. 17. The show went in rattling shape, and encores were numerous. The make-up of this aggregation is excellent, and a large business should result this week. They were at the lower house last week, when the different acts were reviewed at length in these columns. The Howard Athenæum Co. will be at this theatre next week.

H. R. JACOBS' THIRD-AVENUE THEATRE.—Operatic attractions evidently do not suit the tastes of the patrons of this house, as was seen by the decreased attendance afternoon and evening of Oct. 17, when the Wilbur Opera Co. appeared in "The Merry War." The company includes J. E. Conley, P. C. Nares, R. H. Geiger, C. F. Dodge, J. C. Duffy, Susie Kirwin, Julie Christian, Belle Hamilton and others. The opera was fairly well sung. The same bill was presented Tuesday evening. "The Grand Duchess" will be done Wednesday and Thursday, and "Girofle-Girofla" will finish the week. NEXT week, Edwin Arden in "Eagle's Nest."

POOLE'S THEATRE.—"Hazel Kirke" opened week of Oct. 17, to good sized audiences at the two performances given on Monday. The cast was: Dunston Kirke, T. J. Herndon; Lord Travers, Chas. A. Norris; Squire Rodney, T. V. Mellon; Titticus Green, George Gaston; Barney O'Flynn, J. K. Mortimer; Mat, J. H. Reddie; Job, A. J. Wayne; Reuben, R. Roberts; Miles, H. McCarthy; Hazel Kirke, Blanche Mortimer; Dolly Dutton, Mamie Johnston; Lady Carlingford, Alice Stetson; Mercy Kirke, Jennie Howard; Clara, Eva Nash. The piece was creditably acted and mounted. It should do a remunerative business during its brief stay. "Ten Nights in a Bar-room" next week.

DOCKSTADER'S.—Things are just booming at this popular and high-class uptown minstrel theatre. The largest audience of the season greeted the clever coterie of artists evening of Oct. 15, the gala night of the season. H. W. Frillman's "Bedouin Love Song" Dick Jose's "Fold Those Little Hands in Prayer," and W. H. Reiger's "Sweet Days of Old" go as strongly as ever. "Never in the Wide, Wide World," did anything take so well as Lew Dockstader; he is simply worn out from severe attacks of encore. Carl Rankin does "Simply Nothing at All" in such inimitable style that he is kept doing it over and over again. Arthur C. Moreland, who was obliged, on account of illness, to absent himself from the circle for a few days, is back with renewed vocabularisticisms that are more astounding than ever. The singing contingency of the first part, assisted by W. S. Mullaly and his fine orchestra, goes as it never went before. "Shakespeare or Bacon—Which?" is a new first-part finale, introduced for the first time evening of 17 with the following cast: Ignatius Donnelly, Mr. Frillman; Mr. Sturdevant, Mr. Slocum; Dumpy, Mr. Quinn; Hamlet, Mr. Rankin; Romeo, Mr. Maxwell; Juliet, Mr. Shepard; Mr. Paris, Mr. Moreland; Macbeth, Mr. Franks; Macduff, Mr. Marion. It is a rattler, and received hearty endorsement. Edwin French's banjoisms enjoy the same high place in the bill as heretofore. "Cleveland's Trip to the West," with its clever opportunites, gives the company what they want, and the way it is worked up by Messrs. Rankin, Maxwell, Frillman, Moreland, Shepard, Quinn and Perry makes a rattling farce of it. Frank and Marion sustain their popularity in great shape. Babylon is still falling, with new business frequently introduced. Curtis D'Alton, a prominent English baritone, will make his first appearance with the company evening of Oct. 19. E. E. Kidder is a strong factor, and his telling effusions brightly pervade the whole business. He is hard at work on some new and timely skits that will be done at an early date.

TERESINA TUA, an Italian violinist, made her American debut Oct. 17 at Chickering Hall. Her second concert there occurs 19.

HEINRICH BOETEL, the long-heralded German tenor, accomplished his American debut Oct. 17 as Manrico in "Il Trovatore," at the Thalia Theatre, to a crowded house.

JOSEPH JEFFERSON made his first city appearance this season Oct. 17 to a large house, at the Star, as Bob Acres in "The Rivals." Mrs. John Drew was the Mrs. Malaprop of the support. Edwin Varrey, G. S. Hawley, Barton Hill, Emma Vaders, Thomas Jefferson and G. W. Denham were also in the excellent cast. Mr. Jefferson's stay is for three weeks. Henry Irving follows Nov. 7, for five weeks.

SINCE May, 1886, Pauline Godchaux, costumer, has been trying by law to obtain from Lillian Russell the payment of a bill amounting to $850. Since June 15, 1887, Isaac Bloom, dealer in robes and manteaux, has also been trying to extract from the same source about $500. Counsel for Miss Russell offered to arrange the matter, which would otherwise have gone on in legal form before a referee. Counsel for the plaintiffs accepted the defendant's terms, and declare them to have been very satisfactory, although the full amount of neither bill was paid. In the Godchaux case judgment had been obtained against Miss Russell, but there had been difficulty in finding $850 worth of property.

WINDSOR THEATRE.—A big upstairs house and a good-sized one below gave Joseph Murphy warm welcome night of Oct. 17, in "Kerry Gow," which was well played, and in which Mr. Murphy's Dan O'Hara was, as usual, the capital feature of the performance. Stella Tenton, Chas. B. Waite, J. P. O'Keefe, J. M. Colville, H. D. Byers, Walter Owen, Alfa Perry, Ella Baker, W. T. Sheehan, Howard Compton and Maurice Heppard comprise Mr. Murphy's present support. During the week he will put on "The Donagh." Next week, F. B. Warde will occupy the Windsor—his first city engagement this season. His new play, "Gaston Cadol" (adopted by Celia Logan), is billed for 26.

TONY PASTOR'S THEATRE.—Harry S. Sanderson's annual benefit took place evening of Oct. 17. The house held a large audience who thoroughly enjoyed the entertainment. The volunteers included Harry and John Kernell, Adah Richmond, Herbert Bros., A. O. Duncan and Russell Williams in their taking specialties. By permission of Chas. Meyer, an act of "Fortune's Fool" was done, with Blanche Miller, Alberta Gallatin, Maude Monroe, Robert Fitzmorris, Marlande Clark, Frank Rich and B. P. Waring in the cast. "On the Sly," a musical-comedy in three acts, by Ada Deaves, received its premier, the following being the cast: Hon. Chas. Duncan, W. T. Crosbie; Bob Sackett, J. B. Barry; Cranky, William Wild; Florence, Jenny Williams; Rosabelle, Minnie Williams; Pansy, Emma Purcell; Daisy, Olive Murphy; Old Mammy, Jack Dudeny, Biddy O'Brien, Sam Hop, Caterena Strauss, Madame Dumplena, Mlle. Jannet Nover, Ada Deaves; The plot is not new, and the piece will have to be rewritten to make it go. Miss Deaves' impersonations were clever, and if the remainder of the cast had been of as good quality as the star the verdict might have been different, for the piece depends entirely on persons in the cast to make it go. The piece may go on tour under management of C. R. Gardiner. Next week, Tony Pastor will be at home with his road company, which returns from a most prosperous tour.

IN Nick Roberts' suit against W. R. Hayden and J. B. Dickson, the Court has ordered the appointment of a receiver. Col. Morris of the Brooklyn Grand Opera-house will be named by Mr. Roberts, and will doubtless be confirmed.

EDWARD HARRIGAN, pleased with his last Summer's California tour under M. B. Leavitt's management, has made arrangements to again visit the Pacific Coast, under the same auspices, during the Summer of 1889.

BROOKLYN.—Rhea appeared at the Park Theatre last week to moderate business. Herrmann, under J. W. Hamilton's management, drew a full house Oct. 17. "Held by the Enemy" 24.

Stoddard concluded his lectures for the season 13, before a crowded house. Charles Dickens will read from his father's works 26.

HISTORICAL HALL.—On 20 Teresina Tua, violinist, will give a concert.

CRITERION THEATRE.—"Hearts of Oak" drew the best houses of the season last week. There was a full house 17, when "A Night Off" was the attraction. Due 24, "Mam'zelle."

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.—Last week "The Still Alarm" was played to very moderate business. It is not a two weeks' play for Brooklyn. On 17 "Lost in New York" drew a full house, opening its tour here. Jos. Murphy 24-29.

PEOPLE'S THEATRE.—J. C. Stewart's "Two Johns" Co. pleased an audience of good proportions 17. Under the new regime the People's is prospering.

GRAND MUSEUM.—Gus Hill's Co. opened to good business 17.

NOTES.—Herrmann tried one of his old tricks on Monday night at the Park. He had just finished taking a rabbit from one of the audience in the parquet, when a man charged him with having a confederate, and offered to bet $50 that he couldn't play it on him. Col. Sinn, from a private-box, objected to any such wager, but Herrmann said the bet would go to the Beecher Monument Fund, and he then took a rabbit from the man and won the bet. The Brooklyn World bit.....At a performance in the Athenæum 15 the amateur actors lost three gold watches, abstracted from the dressing-rooms while they were on the stage. Two boys who had been engaged to help were arrested, and part of the stolen articles found.....A wealthy citizen has guaranteed the Young Men's Christian Association from financial loss, from the series of symphony concerts which began at the Hall this week. He wants to draw out the Moody and Sankey style of concerts, which have tired the Association patrons so much recently.....Quite a sensation was created around Elm Place last week, by the report that Geo. H. Huber had become manager of Zipp's Casino, which adjoins the Grand Opera-house, but George denies.

TROY.—At the Griswold Opera-house, Corinne opened in "Arcadia" Oct. 17 for a week to a great congregation. Hallen & Hart's Co. come 24 for a week. Newton Beers' "Lost in London" had full houses week ending 15. During the illness of Jessie Lee Randolph, Kate Fiske is playing the leading-lady role.

RAND'S OPERA-HOUSE.—The Bostonians in "Poachers" 17 and "Fatinitza" 18. Hall & Miller's "Ranch 10" 21, 22. The two-third houses at the Boston Ideals' representations of "Daughter of the Regiment" and "Bohemian Girl" 10, 11, did not generally consider that they received full value for their $1.50 and $1. The principals were esteemed at fair to good, but the orchestra blared down the fine points, and the chorus was overtitivated with gingerbread costumes of gaudy, inharmonious colors, though doing very fair work. C. T. Parsloe had half-houses matinee and evening 12, in "A Grass Widow." J. K. Emmet, as usual here, had immense houses 13, 14, 15.

NOTES.—Carrie Hegeman, sister of Susie Hegeman, the Bessie Cameron of Mansfield's Company, was married 12 to Frank W. Carrington, a citizen. Mrs. C. is a proficient violinist, and has frequently been heard in local entertainments.....A large number of comely girls of about "sweet sixteen," in this city, are infatuated with the stage, and occasionally one runs away from home under real or imaginary engagement. Three such disappearances were noted last week. One was found, but two pretty West Troy girls, Julia McCue and Josie, are missing. It having been published that the two latter had joined the "Lost in London" ballet, Mr. Beers, who made his first appearance on the Griswold stage, asked your correspondent to state that the story was false; that he never picked up minors of either sex, or even inexperienced adults, but, in event of sickness or shortage in his company, at once telegraphed to individuals or agencies for such people as he needed.

BUFFALO.—"The Little Tycoon" at the Grand Opera-house week of Oct. 17 have a large advance sale. Last week, Kate Claxton did well with the "Two Orphans" and poorly with "Mary Warner," which was revived after a very long sleep.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—Foster's Boston Ideals in a week of opera 17. R. B. Mantell in "Monbars" and Watkins' "Catnip Tea" party both showed to poor business last week. Due 24, J. K. Emmet.

COURT-STREET.—This week, Edmund Collier in "Virginius," "Metamora" and "Jack Cade." "Mamzelle," with Kate Foley as the star, did a smashing business last week. Next week, Frank I. Frayne.

GRAND CENTRAL.—"A Chip o' the Old Block" this week. Due 24 and week, Leonzo Brothers. Last week, William Cullington's "For Congress?" did a good business.

ADELPHIA.—Lisa Weber's "Night Hawks" this week. Sheffer & Blakeley's Co. had packed houses last week.

NOTES.—Music Hall opens 18 with the big musical festival.....The Jos. Jefferson Dramatic Club appear at Batavia 24.....Three big musical events this week.....The St. Louis Dramatic Circle are rehearsing "Hamlet."....The drop-curtain at the Grand Opera-house has been voted an abomination and is to be replaced by a new one.

SYRACUSE.—At the Wieting Opera-house Oct. 17, 18, 19, J. K. Emmet in "Our Cousin German;" 20, 21, "Catnip Tea;" 22, Abbey's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Co. "Held by the Enemy" played to fair business the first half of the past week. Roland Reed in "The Woman Hater" packed the house and gave satisfaction 13. The Boston Ideals met with a warm reception from a large audience 15.

JACOBS & PROCTOR'S GRAND-OPERA HOUSE.—Oct. 17 and week, C. T. Ellis in "Casper the Yodler." Hallen & Hart's Co. closed a successful week's engagement 15. Due week of 24, "Clio."

ALHAMBRA.—The Bostonians open a three nights' engagement 19.

CAL WAGNER'S THEATRE.—Due 17 and week, Mlle. Girard's Female Minstrels. "Our Railroad Men" drew fair attendance last week.

ROCHESTER.—At the Grand Opera-house, Roland Reed in "Humbug" opened Oct. 10 for three nights. J. K. Emmet comes 20 for the remainder of the week. R. B. Mantell is booked for the first three nights of week commencing 24. The past week "Deacon Brodie" closed a successful engagement 12. "Held by the Enemy" was presented by an excellent company 13-15 to good attendance.

JACOBS & PROCTOR'S ACADEMY.—Hallen & Hart's Co. are entertaining the present week. C. T. Ellis is announced for week of 24. "Clio" is due 31. It seems that Corinne captured the citizens of Rochester. During the past week "Arcadia" was presented to crowded houses.

CASINO THEATRE.—The Lilly Clay Burlesque Co will attract the present week. The "Night Hawks" Co. closed 15 to large attendance.

NOTES.—Frank W. Martineau, the past season treasurer for Jacobs & Proctor's Academy in this city and now business-manager for the Corinne Co., was called aside evening of 13 by his many friends and presented with a very fine silk umbrella with a handle of sterling silver in an imitation of buck-horn, encircled by a heavy gold band suitably inscribed.

ALBANY.—At Leland Opera-house Oct. 17, 18, 19, Mrs. McKee Rankin in "The Golden Giant." Oct. 10, 11, C. T. Parsloe in "A Grass Widow" did only a fair business; 12, 13, The Boston Ideals had good business; 14, 15 and matinee, Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels. This company appeared here a short time ago and did an enormous business, which accounts for the falling off this time.

JACOBS & PROCTOR'S MUSEUM.—Oct. 17 and week "Clio." Oct. 10 and week, C. T. Ellis in "Casper the Yodler" did a phenomenal business.

CENTRAL THEATRE.—Oct. 17, Mignani-Siegrist Star Specialty Co. The business at this house continues good, and Gus Hill's World of Novelties appeared to good houses during the week commencing 10.

NEWBURG.—At the Opera-house, Hyde's Big Specialty Co. drew a crowded house Oct. 17, and gave excellent satisfaction. Gardner's "Karl the Peddler" come 18, and from present indications will do a good business. The "Charlotte Russe" Co. were to follow 19, but having suddenly closed their season, the date is left open. Pat Rooney is booked for 22. It's doubtful if he comes however, as neither agent nor paper has showed up at this writing. "The Dominie's Daughter" has also canceled 24. Andrews' "Michael Strogoff" comes 27. Harry Lindley's Comedy Co. having canceled the week of 10, and the "Jesse James" Co. failing to accept dates of 14, 15 (as asked for), left the house in darkness all of last week.....Laubenheime's Comique is destined to become a permanent resort, if the business of the past is anything to go by. Manager Bostwick is always on the alert, and fully prepared for any emergency, as was exemplified last Monday night, when he quickly substituted (on very short notice) Gallagher and West, Belle Fairmont and J. Arthur Doty, for Gaylord and Mack and Bella Cushing, who, for some unknown reason, failed to show up. Cooper and Lovely, Geo. Shannon, Mamie Ogden and Nettie Sheehan are the new people on this week.....At Columbia Rink, Prof. Ragan's illustrated Tours in Foreign Lands met with such liberal patronage last week that they will be continued this week.....The outside work on the new opera-house is now almost completed, and another month will probably find the building under cover, when the work of finishing the interior will be commenced at once. Many favorable comments (as to its style and architecture) are made by show people visiting the city. They all take it in, and, although far from being completed, they can now form an idea of what it is to be. Rumor has it that Manager Geo. Gardner, of the old house, will transfer his interests to the new one when finished. If such should be the case, there will be no cause for regret, as George is not only popular and well known among show people, but also capable of filling the position.

AUBURN.—At the Academy, "For Congress" was booked for Oct. 17, 18, but canceled, and nothing is billed to fill. "May Blossom" will undoubtedly draw big 19. Kate Rensberg's Opera Co. in "L'Ombra," in English, drew poorly 10, it being too new an innovation for our people—a four-part opera and no chorus. Roland Reed in "The Woman Hater" packed the house, and his new song, "Never Again," took immensely. Gorman Bros.' Minstrels drew a large audience 14. They were a comparatively unknown company here, and their success is partly due to Roland Reed's announcement of their coming from the stage. Abbey's "U. T. C." came in for its share of business, and the house was filled 15. Announced: Watkins' "Catnip Tea" 22, the Karl-Barnabee Opera Co. 27, Levy's Concert Co. 29.....At Shimer's Opera-house, Mme. Girard's Female Minstrels gave a poor show 15.

SARATOGA.—At Putnam Music Hall Oct. 14, Mrs. Bresees' musical was largely attended. Jennie Yeamans in "Our Jennie" 13 and Mabel Sterling in "Three Corners" 14 failed to show up. "Early Birds" are due 18, "The Golden Giant" 20, Ida Van Courtland 24-29 and Mme. Girard's Female Minstrels 31.....At the Casino, Mme. Nora's Glassblowers closed a successful two weeks' engagement 15....S. M. Dawson of the "Early Birds" and Chas. Melville of "The Golden Giant" were in town 11.....At Town Hall, Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels did an excellent business 13. Daly's' "Upside Down" is due 21.

GLENS FALLS.—At the Opera-house Oct. 13, the Alexander Family Concert Co. gave a fair performance to poor business. Inclement weather and a lack of proper advertising were the cause. Bookings: Wilson's Minstrels and Prof. Burton's Dog Circus 19, Ida Van Cortland 31 and week.....R. H. Brock, business-manager of "Thrown Upon the World" Co., and G. A. Joy, in advance of Wilson's Minstrels, were here last week.....THE CLIPPER is on sale at Braley's Opera-house news-room. Its list of readers in this city is increasing.

CANANDAIGUA.—At Kingsbury's Grand, Mrs. McKee Rankin came Oct. 7 to a small business. Owing to the failure of the express company to deliver her paper, the show was not properly billed. Acme Comedy Co. came 10 to small business. They advertised a silver-cornet band, but when the company got here the band was minus, and people declined to go. The company is fair. Beehoven Trio of Boston comes 17, P. F. Baker 19, "May Blossoms" 20, E. F. Mayo 21, Alice Harrison 25.

ONEIDA.—At the Devereaux, Oct. 17, "May Blossom," followed by "Thrown Upon the World" 21. Mme. Girard's Minstrels 26.....At the Oneida 10, "Ivy Leaf" deserved a much better house than it received. Abbey's "U. T. C." played 12, to a full house. The Oneida will have no attraction this week.....R. H. Brock, manager of "Thrown Upon the World," was in town last week.

UTICA.—At the Utica Opera-house appearances point to good business for J. B. Polk, in "Mixed Pickles," Oct. 17. E. F. Mayo will do "Davy Crockett" 20, and the Bostonians hold the boards 22, 24. Gorman Bros.' Minstrels did a good business 13, and the Boston Ideal Opera Co. did fairly 14. Prof. Edward Elliott and the Beethoven Trio left 19 to fill a three months' engagement in the West and South.

MATTEAWAN.—At Dibble's Opera-house, Lester and Allen had big business Oct. 12. "Thrown Upon the World" had a large audience 13. Augusta Van Doren in "Charlotte Russe," and Parker & Gleason's Paradox Co., who were booked, have gone in for repairs, which leaves the time open till Nov. 5, when Pat Rooney will play a return date. Manager Dibble is very unfortunate in having this open time in the best of the season.

ELMIRA.—At the Madison-avenue Theatre, Watkins' "Catnip Tea" was the attraction Oct. 12 to a fair-sized house. Lilly Clay's Gaiety Co. packed the house 15. "Held by the Enemy" came 17, 18, E. F. Mayo in "Davy Crockett is announced for 22.....At the Opera-house, George S. Knight entertained a large audience with "Baron Rudolph" 11. "The Dominie's Daughter" comes 17, J. B. Polk in "Mixed Pickles" 21.

OSWEGO.—A crowded house greeted Abbey's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Oct. 10 at the Academy of Music. Roland Reed, in "The Woman Hater," drew a large audience. The following are booked: 17, Gorman Bros.' Minstrels; 18, "Catnip Tea," by Watkins' Tea Party; 24, "May Blossom;" 26, the Bostonians; 28, "The Little Tycoon."

PENN YAN.—Abbey's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Co. are billed to appear here Oct. 19. As they are popular with our people, a full house will greet them. Gus Van Tuyl, of this village, is in advance of their company. Your correspondent was last week elected a State Director of the Order of American Firemen, at the convention held in Horsehead.

HAMBURG.—The season at the Opera-house opened Sept. 30 with Barlow Bros. & Frost's Minstrels to splendid business. Fursman & Farrar's "Ten Nights in a Bar-room" played to a big house Oct. 6; ditto Liberty Specialty Co. 10. Coming: Abbey's "U. T." Co. 22, "Our Railroad Men" Nov. 1.

YONKERS.—At Music Hall Oct. 10, "A Night Off" was played to a crowded house, the occasion being a benefit for Irving Hose Co. of this city. J. B. Polk presented "Mixed Pickles" and "The Jerseyman" to fair business 12, 13. Due 17: Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Knight in "Rudolph."

LITTLE FALLS.—Gorman Bros.' Minstrels turned people away from the Opera-house Oct. 12. They will probably return. Coming: "Thrown Upon the World" 20, to be followed by "Daniel Boone."..... The Lodge of Elks here is in a prosperous condition, the membership list increasing rapidly.

BINGHAMTON.—The Alice Harrison Co. in "Photos" opened their season here Oct. 15, to good business. After things get working smoothly they will give a good show.

PENNSYLVANIA.

PHILADELPHIA.—It was expected that the benefit to Sara Jewett would result in a considerable amount, but it didn't, although no effort was spared either by the proprietors of the theatre or the professional people who volunteered to make it a success. One hundred and thirty-nine dollars over and above expenses was the realization. George W. Childs contributed $100, the Elks $50 and W. M. Singerly bought $25 worth of tickets. Commendation is to be given to Burr W. McIntosh for his presswork, which was a labor of love, well performed. A letter from Miss Jewett, thanking her Philadelphia friends for their kindness in her behalf, was read on the stage. The performance was below mediocre.....Aug. Daly has sent a check for a liberal amount to the managers of the Homeopathic Hospital, in lieu of permitting John Drew or Joseph Holland to appear at the International Carnival for the benefit of the institution, because these gentlemen will be engaged during the day and night of the benefit.....Creston Clarke, son of J. S. Clarke, has been rehearsing "Hamlet" at the Walnut-street Theatre for the last ten days. It is his intention to star on the road, if he makes a success, and he will probably appear at the South Broad-street Theatre during the season, under his father's management. Everybody was waiting for "Erminie" by Aronson's No. 2 Co. 15, when the opera was given in good style to business which is seldom exceeded at this house. MASSACHUSETTS.

BOSTON.—The story that a weekly publication in your city published last week as a solution to the mystery surrounding the strange suicide in this city last Spring of George R. Parks was received here with ridicule. I met two or three prominent travelling Thespians, and they expressed the same opinion, after reading the tale—"utter rot." The coupling of a prominent young actress' name with that of the late lamented Parks brought the paper in for wholesale condemnation here. It was generally disbelieved in the Hub that Parks killed himself on account of any unfortunate attachment for a woman.

BOSTON MUSEUM.—Manager Field brought out Buchanan's "Sophia" 17, and Bostonians then saw the piece for the first time. I gave you the cast last week. It is on for a run, and, if it's a success, it will get a good run. Mr. Field has the New England rights of "The Barrister" and "The Bells of Hasselmire." "The Guv'nor" drew nicely last week up to 15, when "Oliver Twist" and "Simpson & Co." were specially staged for a Saturday-night bill. They drew the expected big house.

GLOBE THEATRE.—Manager Aronson saw his big money-getting company off Sunday morning, 16, for Chicago, where they opened 17 in "Erminie," and then Grau's French-opera Co. filed into the theatre. The latter folks will stay this week only. Kiralfy's "Lagardere" Co. open 24. It is not necessary for me at this late day to speak of the phenomenal business of "Erminie." Thursday, 13, there wasn't a seat to be had at the box-office for the remaining performances of the week. It must have been a source of regret to both managements to shut off the season when it was drawing such stunning big houses.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.—Dion Boucicault says he doesn't fancy "Phyrne" for a name for his latest new play, and so he has rechristened the infant "The Romance of a Young Wife." The play seems to have been especially named for the Hollis street engagement, which opened 17, and will continue four weeks. "Phyrne" that was will share the season with "The Shaughraun" and "The Colleen Bawn." "Kerry" precedes the main attractions nightly. Rice's "Corsair" Co. sailed boldly away Sunday night, 16, via Fall River. Dalys' "Upside Down" Co. come after Mr. Boucicault, and play Thanksgiving-week. I dropped over to the Chelsea Academy 14, and saw Author McNally's comedy. It is even livelier than "Vacation," and possesses a little more point than did that piece; but it has got to be toned down a bit for the Hollis' audiences. Tom Daly works like a racehorse all through the play. He appears to labor too hard, in fact, and most of the audience feel the strain themselves out of sheer sympathy. A little acquired naturalness, and Tom will be all right. Lizzie Derious is surprisingly clever.

BOSTON THEATRE.—This is the sixth week of "A Run of Luck." The drama moves along swimmingly, the hounds scamper over the stage as naturally as ever, and the running cracks bowl along under the (stage) wire of the Goodwood track as exhilarating as one could wish. Business has improved, and there is nothing to prevent the piece from filling out its original booking of three months. W. P. Peirce managed a concert here 16 (Sunday). The annual benefit of the Boston Press Club occurs Thursday afternoon, 20. Here are the volunteers: Mr. and Mrs. Dave Oaks, Arthur Plummer, H. L. Southwick, Morris S. Kuhne, Myra Goodwin and her company, James E. Murdoch, Joseph L. White, Boston Ideal Banjo, Mandolin and Guitar Club, Dion Boucicault and his company; Lucie Pitts, Sig. Botoli, Louis Aldrich, George W. Wilson and Boston Museum Co., M. Maris, Harvard Quartet, third act of "A Run of Luck," Edmund T. Phelan, El Nino Eddie and Thomas and Watson. The music will be under the direction of N. Lothian; accompaniments by J. A. Howard. The entertainment committee were obliged to decline several excellent offers, as the bill would then be too long. Seats are going at a smashing gait, and the club treasury will get a much-needed lift.

PARK THEATRE.—If J. S. Haworth's "Rosedale" Co. hadn't gone to pieces the lively little woman filling the stage here this week would be cavorting around on some circuit. But, just the same, Myra Goodwin is making a good deal of fun for the fashionable patrons of the Park in "Philopene," and her many Boston friends are rejoicing because this clever soubrette has at last got a first-class opening in her own town. She will stop this week only, for Clara Morris is underlined for 24. Annie Pixley finished a capital fortnight 15.

HOWARD ATHENÆUM.—Louis Aldrich is doing "My Partner" here this week. He tells us that the piece, after this engagement, will never again be played in the Hub. Well, the Howard audiences will sing its requiem to the pleasant accompaniment of a box-office drawer-full of dollars and dimes. The Rentz-Santley Co. closed a bang-up week, 15. Charley Seamon does an extremely funny dudelet turn. A Harrisonian Specialty Company is booked for 24. By this I mean that the mascot manager, Wm. Harris, is organizing one of these big specialty shows for his attractions next week. What a money-getter the man is! That is what everybody says.

GAIETY MUSEE AND BIJOU THEATRE.—A more contented manager than B. F. Keith it would be hard to find in a good long day's search. He is making more money than he dreamed of in this cosey little house, and he ought to be satisfied. He says he is. Some repairs are under way, the principal one being the arrangement of a handsome apartment for the use of the lady patrons. It is furnished and decorated grandly. New people this week: El Nino Eddie, Joe and Annie Burgess, Geo. Green, Middleton Marionettes, Dora Mayer, Marti and Martinez, W. B. Norris, Hattie and Dick Stewart, Daisy Mayer, John Barker and the stock.

WINDSOR THEATRE.—Sam and Morris Weston, with "The Way of the World," will make money up here this week. Edwin F. Mayo didn't cart it all away last week with "Davy Crockett."

WORLD'S MUSEUM.—It's a pretty good list this week, and the performers ought to make some money for the house. The names: Frank Kennedy and Lottie Sinclair, Prof. Harry Deaves, William T. Dwyer, Sam Archer, Crotty, Frank G. Mack, Dan Collins, Zanfretta Family, Dave Reed and family, and Thomas and Watson.

AUSTIN & STONE'S MUSEUM.—The Mandolinists hold over this week, and the appended lengthy list of specialists affords the stage fun: Braham Brothers, Ida Lillian Abrams, Dave Oaks and Jessie Boyd, John H. W. Byrne, Powers and Hall, Louise Garland, Frank Clayton, Haynes and Redmond, Harry M. Price, the Gorman Family, George and Nellie Hewson, the Brothers Weston, Topsy Robena, the Great Hunter and others.

RAKINGS.—Austin's Sunday concert, 16, drew a splendid house at Music Hall. It was "New York night," as Manager Millbank called it. The principal artists were Dick Jose, W. H. Reiger, H. W. Frillman, J. P. Garland, Edwin French and Burt Sheppard from Dockstader's, Harry Fisher from Harrigan's, Marie Bockel of Salsbury's Troubadours, Rose Leighton from the Standard Theatre and the Kopler Sisters from the Thalia Theatre. .....Levino & Daly's diorama is attracting profitable audiences at Horticultural Hall.....Managers Reber & Brooks are booming things with Lovenberg's Phantasies. From what I have heard of the show, I should say it ought to be a winner..... M. J. Kelly, the famous ball-player, "Jay Dee" (J. J. Drohan), J. A. Mackay, John Graham (a popular Elk) and other kindred spirits left the Hub 16 for New York. They do "The Henrietta" and "The Corsair."

While here Mr. Torrance arranged with the Worcester Excursion Car Co. for the car "Shaughraun" for a term of seventeen weeks. The car will meet the company at New Orleans, and from there will go through the South and to San Francisco. Mr. Torrance left the company here to join them again in New Orleans. .....A large number of representatives of the press and invited guests are expected here from New York and Boston to witness J. Connor Roach in his play of "Dan Darcy." J. M. Hill, under whose management the star and play take the road, is in the city, personally supervising the details for the initial performance.....The Museum will open the season this week with a long list of attractions, and will give four shows daily.

LAWRENCE.—Atkinson & Cook's Co. opened for a week Oct. 10, and presented a repertory of plays. They have a first-class company, and deserve better patronage than they received here; business was only fair.....The Old Residents' entertainment 12 at City Hall had a packed house. Coming: Arizona Joe 24, 25, 26, 27, Redmund-Barry Co. 28, ...Lawrence Lodge of Elks organized in May last with fifty members. Sullivan and others.....William Whitley is at his home in Lawrence, being called to the funeral of his mother.

NOTES.—The Exposition closed 15 amid a blaze of glory and rounds of fun. It had been a great success.....J. E. Sackett and Mr. Pattie, an employe of his at the Hennepin-avenue Theatre, were found guilty of assaulting J. D. Shearer, an attorney of this place, during the Booth-Barrett engagement here. Mr. Shearer presented a door-check which had been handed him by a friend who, only a few moments before, had been refused admission on it because it was a check of the previous night. There was a great conflict of evidence, but after two trials (the jury disagreed at the first trial) Sackett and Pattie were convicted, and Mr. Wiggins was acquitted. The Court imposed a fine of $50 and costs—amounting to about $75 or $80 on Mr. Sackett, and about the same amount, less the costs, on Mr. Pattie. It was an unfortunate affair all around, as the parties all hold very respectable positions here.....George Allen, a comedian formerly connected with the Pence Opera-house, was found dead 14, in the rear of No. 2 First street, this city. The remains were taken to Connelly's morgue and an examination held 15. Allen was about forty-five years old, and has relatives in Terre Haute, Ind., who were at once notified. He had been engaged at the West-side Opera-house in St. Paul quite recently. The profession will give the remains a burial, should no word be received from his relatives. W. E. DEATHS IN THE PROFESSION.

DAVID FISHER.—This excellent English actor passed away Oct. 4 at his residence in London, Eng., after an illness of several weeks. His memory will be closely linked with recollections of the London and provincial stage as known to a preceding generation. His grandfather was the founder, and for many years the manager, of the Norfolk and Suffolk circuit, which comprised sixteen towns, and all the members of the Fisher family, who collectively assisted in various capacities, were greatly esteemed for their respectability and acknowledged talents. The deceased was the son of David Fisher, who appeared as Macbeth at Drury-lane Theatre when Edmund Kean was in the fullest enjoyment of popularity. He afterwards acted Hamlet at the same house with marked success. All the Fishers could play several instruments, and David and Charles were accomplished musicians. Charles Fisher died in April, 1869, at the age of seventy-six. David Fisher, who was seventy-one years of age at the time of his death, was born at East Dereham, Norfolk. He was trained to the stage from his boyhood, but, meeting with an accident at the outset of his career, he turned his attention to musical pursuits, and appeared at the local concerts as principal violinist. When he had sufficiently recovered from his lameness, in 1849, he joined the company of Edmund Glover at the Prince's Theatre, Glasgow. There he remained nearly four years, when he accepted an engagement from Charles Kean, and made his first appearance in London at the Princess' Theatre, Nov. 1, 1853, as Victor in the adapted drama called "The Lancers," and for six succeeding years took a prominent position in all the pieces produced. In 1859 Mr. Fisher's services were secured for the Adelphi by Benjamin Webster, and at that theatre he attained even greater distinction by his embodiment of the Abbe Latour in "The Dead Heart," Garroway in "Paper Wings," Hulks in "The Willow Copse," and Kyrle Daly in "The Colleen Bawn." Straying for awhile from the stage, Fisher gave in 1863 a monologue entertainment called "Facts and Fancies" at the Hanover-square Rooms, and afterwards at the St. James' Hall, thus displaying, in addition, his skill as a vocalist and a performer on the piano and violin. In the Autumn of that year he accepted an engagement to join George Vining's Co. at the Princess'. On Dec. 26, 1865, he made his first appearance at the Haymarket, in "Orpheus in the Haymarket." The following year he was associated with the management of H. J. Byron at Liverpool as actor and stage-manager, and there he remained for two years, returning to London for the opening of the Globe Theatre in November, 1868, were he played Major Treherne in "Cyril's Success." In 1869 he acted Major Jorum in "Formosa" at Drury-lane. In 1870 an engagement at the Olympic followed, and the next year he reappeared at the Globe under H. J. Montague's management, afterwards acting at the Opera Comique. When the Criterion Theatre opened in March, 1874, he played Ransome Trivass in "An American Lady," and CARDS.

W. A. M., Bangor.—C was right in claiming the pot. A having bet, his hand was confirmed. Mistakes go at poker, and are always to the disadvantage of the party making them.

JACK POT, Key West.—The pot belonged to D. Having passed, B and C had no say in the game whatever. Under circumstances such as you state, D had only to show openers, no matter how few or how many cards he held.

J. S., Burlington.—B made his best play when he secured the little casino. You should have stated A's hand in your description of the cards.

R. D., Buffalo.—B can only draw down his dollar bet. The other bets remain as they are. It is a "show down," the best hand winning the pot.

J. G. G., Masseria.—You need to make another statement. The inquiry as made leaves us in doubt as to whether A did or did not make a change, and if he did, in what manner it was done. State the facts as they occurred.

E. F. K., Newton.—1. From your statement we take it for granted that straights had previously been agreed upon; if so, A won the pot beyond the shadow of a doubt. 2. It was not necessary for the opener to show his "split."

A. H., Philadelphia.—We never take cognizance of double pinochle. It is played in all sorts of ways, no two coteries melting or counting alike.

DAVE, Lynn.—Not if B looked at the face of any one of his cards before announcing that he had six, or if he raised them before that announcement, even though he may not have looked at their faces. It is not then a misdeal, and B's hand is dead. The remaining players can, of course, compete for the pot.

J. J., Cairo.—1. Yes. 2. Not unless previously stipulated. 3. Nonsense. 4. At regular euchre only one player can go alone at the same time. 5. He could only count two. 6. The count of four is not recognized in commonsense euchre, but it is sometimes given in the mongrel game.

E. C., Tremont.—D could not go alone, unless it had been agreed to play in that exceptional way.

J. F. R., Pascoag.—1. You were right. The hand described was surely a straight. 2. Four. Each suit may form a flush. 3. Yes. 4. No answers by mail.

L. F.—1. Certainly. He had a perfect right to split and draw, and, if the discard pile was properly made, it would have shown the card he threw away. 2. There may be such rules, but THE CLIPPER never recognizes them.

E. A. A., Boston.—1. Not necessarily. 2. It depends upon circumstances. 3. You should have stated the actual play.

ST. LOUIS, St. Louis.—If A was not called, he, of course, won the pot. This merely answers your question. As the disputed play warranted an appeal to us for decision, why not give us the benefit of all the particulars, just as they occurred? B was wrong under certain circumstances a man can play and win with only four cards.

J. S. B., Wakefield.—No, nothing can count on that deal.

C. B.—The melts should all be made before a card is led.

J. D. B.—An unwritten law of the game of draw-poker requires that C, having shown his hand to one player, must show it to all others. This prevents B, to whom the hand was shown, having any unfair advantage over the others in knowing C's method of playing. The rule of the house was right, and should be abided by.

H. T. H., New Brighton.—You were right. No one having paid for the privilege of gazing at your hand, you had only to show openers.

R. S.—No. 1 had a perfect right to split his jacks and draw. There was no head of his giving notice. The fact that he opened and afterwards discarded clearly showed that he either had openers remaining in his hand or possessed them when he opened. If the discard pile was properly made, the proof that he had had them would be found either in his hand or conjointly in his hand and the discard pile.

BASEBALL, CRICKET, ETC.

J. M. C., Albany.—There is no work published given the record of professional baseball players.

G.—The rules of the National League in 1885 and 1886 were that the club winning the greatest percentage of games in the championship series should be declared the champion club for the season in which such games were played.

B. C., Waterbury.—1. The longest throw on record is 133yds. 1ft. 7½in., by John Hatfield, Oct. 15, 1872, at the Union Grounds, Brooklyn, N. Y. 2. The Cincinnati Reds of 1870 included: Allison, catcher; Brainard, pitcher; Gould, Sweasy and Waterman, bases; George Wright, short-stop; Leonard, Harry Wright and McVey, outfield, and Dean and Atwater, substitutes. 3. The Atlantics of Brooklyn beat the Cincinnatis June 14 and Oct. 26, 1870, by the respective scores of 8 to 7 and 11 to 7. 4. See Theatrical Answers.

F. P., Grafton.—It is not necessary to play off the tie. B wins.

R. AND A., Rochester.—Radbourn is said to receive a larger salary.

F., Chicago.—The official averages compiled by Secretary Young can alone give the exact number of runs made by the Boston and New York Clubs this season.

N. R., Chicago.—The bet is off. A loses, because the Chicagos failed to beat the Pittsburgs two runs, as he had wagered they would do.

J. H. P., Nicholls.—1. The National League clubs ranked in the following order Oct. 3: Detroit, Chicago, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Pittsburg, Washington and Indianapolis. 2. The relative positions on Oct. 7 were Detroit, Philadelphia, Chicago, New York, Boston, Pittsburg, Washington and Indianapolis.

C. L. W., Toronto.—The Boston and Chicago Clubs were announced to play off in Chicago, Ill., championship games that had been scheduled for Boston, Mass., and had been postponed. President Young, however, decided that the games could not be counted as championship contests, and the Boston team were consequently deprived of two victories.

ATHLETIC.

H. J., Dayton.—The best standing jump, without weights, is 10ft. 10½in., by H. M. Johnson. See CLIPPER ANNUAL for information on all such matters.

ATHLETIC, Detroit.—C wins the bet, the same as if he had won an individual first prize.

RING.

J. D., Chicago.—Yankee Sullivan was found dead, May 31, 1856, in a cell in the San Francisco jail, where he had been placed after being arrested by the Vigilance Committee. It was stated at the time that he had committed suicide by opening veins in his arm.

AQUATIC.

J. J. L., Bellair.—A professional pedestrian, etc., is not eligible to compete in an amateur boat race.

C. R. V., Philadelphia.—The sloop Volunteer was built by Pusey, Jones & Co. of Wilmington, Del., and was rigged by Lawley of Boston, Mass.

J. G. S., Bismarck.—The answer was correct. Trickett never held The Sportsman challenge cup, consequently Hanlan could not have won it from him. The cup was first rowed for in an open scullers' race on the Thames River, Eng., Sept. 16, 17, 1872, and was won by William Elliott, from whom Ed. Hanlan won it in a match race on the Tyne, June 16, 1879. The race between Hanlan and Trickett was for the cup and the championship of England, besides a money stake, but Hanlan was the holder of the trophy and defended his title successfully.

W. W. H., Kent.—You will find the records in THE CLIPPER ANNUAL for 1887.

BILLIARDS, POOL, ETC.

R. F. S., Buffalo.—A player is not allowed to impart two distinct and different motions to the cue ball without removing his cue from the ball. According to your statement and diagram, the player made a four play.

G. D., David City.—Several horses have trotted twenty miles inside of an hour.

D. R. S., Fort Walla Walla.—THE CLIPPER ANNUAL contains records of all branches of sport, etc. It is issued yearly, early in January, and the price is fifteen cents per copy.

T. G. P., Rochester.—The bet is a draw.

READER.—B wins. It is evident that no fraud existed in his "sure thing," hence it goes.

J. S., Cleveland.—1. $500 to $550 a pair. 2. Ash and maple. 3. 60ft. from head-pin to chalk line, or 75ft. over all. No. 4. Two or three methods have been tried, but none give satisfaction.

DEATH OF FORDHAM.

The well-known English jockey, George Fordham, of whose illness mention was made in a recent issue, died Oct. 12, of consumption. He was born at Cambridge, Sept. 25, 1838, and at the age of thirteen years won his first race on Hampton, at Brighton, where he died. He continued to ride up to the close of the season of 1883, and during those forty-five years he was first past the post 2,587 times, although he did not place very many classic events to his credit, and never succeeded in winning the St. Leger, while he bestrode the winner of the Derby once only—Sir Bevys, in 1879. He won the Cesarewitch with R. Ten Broeck's American mare Prioress, in 1857; won the Oaks with Summerside in 1859, Formosa in 1868, Gamos in 1870, Reine in 1872, and with Thebias in 1881. He twice carried off the Two Thousand Guineas Stakes, with Vauban in 1867 and with Petronel in 1880, while he took the One Thousand Guineas with Mayonaise in 1859, Nemesis in 1861, Siberia in 1865, Formosa in 1868, Scottish Queen in 1869, Thebais in 1881, and Hauteur in 1883. During his long career in the pigskin he rode for many owners and trainers of prominence, and in his day was considered the foremost jockey in Great Britain, while his fearlessness and determination gained for him the appropriate nickname of "The Demon." As may be inferred from his winning record, Fordham was in great demand, and as he was of the saving sort he accumulated considerable means, and for a time withdrew from the race track. Unfortunate speculations, however, swamped him financially, and he was obliged to return to his first love. During the time he was living a life of ease, however, he acquired habits of indulgence that, coupled with advancing years, prevented him riding with the old dash and nerve, and his services were less sought after than formerly. His reputation was always that of a thoroughly honest jockey, and his name was never mixed up with any discreditable transaction on the turf.

HE WILL FIGHT.—The Marquis of Aylesbury on Oct. 12 submitted the Jockey Club decision to the Attorney-General and, acting on the latter's opinion, instructed his lawyers to ask the Chancery Court for an injunction suspending the notice warning him off of English racecourses, as a preliminary to further action against the Stewards Club. The defense of the Marquis is that he did not instruct the jockey, Martin, to pull his horse, and offers to bring witnesses to show Martin's evidence false.

ATHLETIC.

ITEMS FROM AUSTRALIA.

Alexander Miller, better known as Professor Meunier, father of William Miller, the wrestler and weight-lifter, died at his residence in Melbourne, Aus., Aug. 27. For many years he had been an instructor in the art of fencing in the city in which he died. He was also the teacher of many of the best known people there in French and other languages, and was a vocalist of repute, having sung in some of the most impressive ceremonials of the Catholic Church. He was likewise an enthusiast in legitimate sports of all kinds, and had done much to advance their interests in Australia. The assemblage that followed his remains to the family plot in the Melbourne Cemetery was large and representative in its nature.....Prof. Wm. Miller was to leave Australia for the States on the October steamer, and for that reason declined a tardy challenge from John Connor to engage in a Græco-Roman wrestling match for $500 a side and the "championship of the world," supposed to have been won by the latter in a match with Cannon for a like stake, which took place at the Alexandria Theatre, Melbourne, Aug. 15. Connor won that match in two straight falls.....William Edwards, the long-distance walker, who visited this country a couple of years ago, and found that he was not so good a walker as he had believed, has abandoned the race track, and is now the proprietor of the Horseshoe Hotel, Carlton, one of the most comfortable hostelries at the Antipodes. The walls are profusely ornamented with portraits of sporting celebrities from all parts of the world, together with scenes interesting to the sporting fraternity. .....Andre Christol, the Græco-Roman wrestler, well known in the States, is now teaching the art of wrestling to about thirty young men in Melbourne, and on Aug. 30 an exhibition was given by them at the class-room in the Exhibition Building. Afterwards the athletic Frenchman entertained a number of his friends at dinner at the Pension Francaise.

PAPER-CHASING.—The Olympic A. C. Harriers opened their season Oct. 15 by a run cross country from the Woodbine Hotel, High Bridge. The weather was just right for the sport, the air being dry and crisp, while the ground was in splendid order, and the eight miles or so were covered in an hour and five minutes by T. Namack, three yards in front of F. W. Sliney, H. Hjertberg third.

L. E. MYERS was nominally first favorite for the Sir Joseph Banks Handicap, to be run at Botany, near Sydney, Aus., the last two days in August, just too late for us to receive intelligence of the result by our latest mail from the Antipodes.

TOM RAY, the champion pole-vaulter, announces through the last issue of The London Sporting Life to hand that, before retiring from the field, he will jump anyone in the world for $125, $250 or $500 a side, or for a prize of like value.

THE MANHATTAN HANDICAPS.

The winners and second-best men in the preliminary races between members of the M. A. C. for valuable trophies met in deciding contests at the club grounds, on Eighth avenue, on Saturday last. Admission was by invitation, and, although the day was quite cool, and a high, chilling easterly wind prevailed, there was a very fair attendance, including a goodly delegation of ladies. The path was in good condition, but the low temperature and strong wind militated against the making of very fast time. Return:

BAXTER'S HIGH VAULT.

About five hundred persons attended the members' meeting of the New York Athletic Club on the grounds in Mott Haven. The feature of the occasion was a successful attempt of H. H. Baxter to beat the American record for pole-vaulting, clearing a height of 11ft. 5in., thus eclipsing Tom Ray's record of 11ft. 4½in. A. A. Gordon had a try at the 120yds. hurdle record, as did Queckberner and Barry at the 12lb hammer-throwing record, but all failed, the weather being too cool and the wind too strong. Return:

SCENE ON A FRENCH RACECOURSE.

There was a great turf scandal on Oct. 12, at the Enghien races, caused by the pulling of the undoubtedly best horse in the Prix de Saint Brice Steeplechase Handicap. Thousands and thousands of francs were won by a ring, and the scandal ended in a free fight on the course between the public and the jockey's friends. Three horses started—Lochinvar, Cherubin and La Cologne. Of these, M. Camille Blanc's Cherubin was at once, for some mysterious reason, installed as a warm favorite, although Lochinvar was much his superior in form. La Cologne was an outsider, and had not the slightest chance of figuring in the race. All went well until the turn for home was reached. Here it became evident to all present that Baker, on Lochinvar, was pulling his horse. Cherubin still came on, and jumped the last fence several lengths in front of M. Siaser's representative, who fell in taking the hurdles. Baker, his rider, was violently thrown, and had a terrible fall, turning completely over twice. What followed is almost indescribable. No sooner was the jockey on the ground than a rush was made from the pelouse by four hundred men yelling "Voleur!" "A bas Siaser!" "He fell on purpose!" "Kill him!" The crowd invaded the racecourse, and, surrounding Baker, who was half stunned, beat the unfortunate lad with sticks and umbrellas. One infuriated woman, who had bet ten francs on Lochinvar, struck him with her parasol until it broke in splinters over his head and then kicked him in the mouth with her patent-leather shoes until one of Baker's friends seized the infuriated woman by the skirt and dragged her off the body of her victim. The woman's clothes were torn to shreds. The scene was the most indecent ever seen on a racecourse. A dozen English jockeys and their friends made a charge through the crowd. Knocking down scores of men and women with their fists, they rescued Baker and brought him into the weighing paddock. The crowd then came in swarms into the stand, hooting and yelling like wild men. A general free fight began and lasted half an hour, leaving fourteen men and six women hors de combat. Just as the mob managed to get hold of Baker again, who was now senseless, a squadron of police and a company of soldiers charged and cleared the ground. Nobody was killed, but twenty-two were wounded. The public are highly indignant against the owners of the two horses and their trainers. Both M. Siaser and Baker and Camille Blanc will be brought before the steeplechase committee.

BOWLING.

Fall and Winter tournaments at this popular pastime are now becoming talked about, and the various city and suburban clubs are getting into practice and forming their best bowlers into organizations to represent them in the final trials. Among the tournaments to be held in this city that at Pomeroy's, 116 East Fourteenth street, takes precedence, and will probably be inaugurated during the present or the early part of next month. The bowling alleys in the basement connected with the billiard-room are being overhauled and put into shape by Messrs. Grote & Co., 114 East Fourteenth street, who built them originally, and are known as the best in this particular line. They have also just completed the alleys in the Railroad Employes' Building, corner of Forty-fifth street and Madison avenue, the gift of Cornelius Vanderbilt to the employes of the several railroads with which he is connected. Messrs. Grote & Co. were the first to inaugurate a bowling tournament in this city, in 1882, offering two valuable silver cups, besides three gold medals, to be contested for by fifteen representative clubs of this city and vicinity. Following the precedent thus established, Mr. Pomeroy in 1885 offered prizes aggregating $400 in value, which were contended for by a number of the best clubs hereabouts. In 1886 he followed by giving a like number of prizes, and has again invited the players to contend for cups and medals in a tournament as above stated. The scores and incidents of the contest for supremacy will be duly noted in these columns.

ADAIR, the athlete, who visited this country upon the occasion of the second visit of Jim Mace, with whom he traveled for a time, exhibiting feats with dumbbells and heavy weights, recently walked from the George and Dragon, Cheadle, to the Cock Inn, Didsbury, Eng., a mile and a half, in less than fourteen minutes. He was attired in a ordinary suit of clothes, and was attended by Sam Spray, of concert hall celebrity.

PETER PRIDDY and Edward Nikirk have been matched to run a half-mile, $250 a side, at Exposition Park, Pittsburg, Pa., on Nov. 19.

BASEBALL.

FROM THE HUB.

Gossip Gleaned by the Clipper's Boston Baseball Reporter.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 16.—The Boston baseball team was banqueted at Young's Hotel Saturday evening, and the boys felt very happy to think that, though they had not won the championship, they were so highly honored. Morrill, Wheelock, Conway, O'Rourke, Tate, Madden, Radbourne, Johnston, Nash, Wise and Kelly were the members of the nine who were present. The missing were Sutton, who had left for his home in Palmyra, N. Y., Burdock, on the injured list, Hornung and Daily, Col. Chas. H. Taylor presided, and in the course of his remarks said that "this year Boston had won on the water and had not won on the land, but while we may take pride in the victory won on the water, we have no criticism to make because we didn't win on the land; we know that the gentlemen of the nine have made an honest attempt to win, and, instead of mourning over this year, we will look forward to next year. Boston is accustomed to victory and Boston is accustomed to defeat, and when men have honestly tried to win Boston doesn't sulk and Boston doesn't kick." He then presented to Sam Wise the silver bat for the best actual batting average, and to Kelly the badge for the best base-running record. Kelly said that when in Washington he asked Dan Lamont to write him up a nice speech, and his wish had been gratified. He made a long and interesting speech full of personal reminiscences. Speaking of his experience in Boston he said: "We come back defeated and receive a banquet and prizes. That is much better than the winners are usually received. Yet this shows how kind Boston is, and how loyal and true-hearted are her citizens. When I was sold in the slave-market of Chicago I did not imagine that I would like Boston. Yet, now that I look back, it seems to me that Mr. Spalding was more than kind in sending me here. The moment I arrived here, even before I was favorably known, the right hand of fellowship was extended to me, and I was made to feel at home and among friends. On the ball-field I have been treated like a king, and off the ball-field I was adopted by Bostonians, and educated, so to speak, until now I feel that my education is complete. There is but one thing lacking. If you could arrange to send me to the Concord School of Philosophy for one of their meetings, I feel then I could cope successfully with my friend Anson, the prince of kickers. I shall never forget all this kindness, and I hope that I shall remain a member of the Boston Club just as long as I can wield a stick. 'Are you going to leave Boston next season?' ask the reporters. Not as long as Boston wants me. I have become an Athenian, and I hope I shall be worthy of the name as long as a breath of life remains in my body. We played this season in pretty hard luck. We started in and played a great game, and, had we kept up the game we were playing in May and June, I don't think there is a club in America that could beat us. Then we met with misfortune, in the injuries to Burdock and Wise, and we fell off. I leave to-night, Mr Chairman, and probably will not return until next Spring. Then we will play ball again, and win the championship sure this time." John F. Morrill was received with cheers. He spoke highly of Captain Kelly, and said that much of the success of the team during the past season was due to his efforts. Kelly made a statement during the evening of the stand taken by the Brotherhood. He said that the order was not a secret one, as claimed by the National League magnates. He referred to the case of Radbourn. He knew that Rad did his best, and it was acts like this that the Brotherhood wanted to prevent.

For once, the Boston directors have got the better of themselves. The architect of the grand-stand estimated its cost at not over $35,000, and plenty of people took little stock in even such a figure, believing that the cost would fall far below it. It now appears that the lowest bill for the mason, carpenter and iron work will bring the amount up to $55,000. This was an eye-opener for the triumvirate, and had not the changes been already inaugurated, there would have been a council of war. It was decided, however, to go on with the good work, all the contracts have been awarded, which will result in Boston's having by all odds the finest grand-stand in the country.

The Bostons have been spending the week in New England, and have played every day; the weather has been chilly, though clear. They defeated the Melroses, Portlands three times, Plainvilles, and the Lowells twice, playing the latter for the championship of Massachusetts and winning in each case without the least trouble. After their victory over the New Yorks, the Lowells expected to give the Bostons a good battle. The score was 14 to 3 in favor of Boston Saturday, and the Lowells had made two hits off Madden when Kelly was called in to pitch..

Joe Hornung will Winter in Boston, instead of going to Utica, as usual. The contract of the team expired Saturday, but Morrill will take a team to Laconia, N. H., Wednesday, and to North Adams on Saturday. All the players here will attend the St. Louis-Detroit game. Will they pay $1.50 each? Hardly. Kelly won't, that I know.

Changes in the team have been very often discussed of late, and the directors have been able to put their fingers in many things that were anything but satisfactory to them during the past season. There has been considerable drinking going on by prominent members of the club, and it is claimed that in the mildness of his disposition Manager Morrill has been blind to a great deal and, besides, has been hoodwinked. It looks as if this would all result in the hiring of an independent manager, who could be held responsible, as a player could not very well be, for the conduct of the men under his charge.

Hornung is one of the players who is being seriously discussed. Joe has the sharpest tongue in the club, and two of the directors have been made to feel its edge so often that they are heartily sick of him, and would like to let him go. Though he is the king of left fielders, if they could get a fair offer for him, or could exchange him, they would do it in an instant. Fines won't do any good. They only make a man surly and incapable of good work. But won't they be sorry if they let Hornung go? Well, rather. They will never have missed a man as they will miss him. They had better cast their eyes in the direction of second base, where Burdock has not played half the time in two games, and they have not profited by this fact, and guard against emergencies. If it hadn't been by the infatuation of one of the directors, Boston would not have suffered for the lack of a man to play the position during the past Summer, as has been the case. The other two directors, and President Soden is one of them, deserve censure for allowing one man to dictate how such an important position should be filled. Boston can be strengthened next year by securing a first-rate short-stop, putting Wise in right field and keeping Kelly behind the bat as often as possible.

The St. Louis Browns have many friends here, though Boston is a National League city. It must be remembered that Latham hails from Lynn, which is almost one of our suburbs, while Detroit players have no such ties to bind them to us. League admirers make a good point, however, that Detroit has made so fine a showing in the absence of Brouthers, one of the best batsmen in the land, and have twice blanked the "boss club."

I have been watching with the utmost interest the work of the umpires in the St. Louis-Detroit series, and think that by this time its success and feasibility have been proven beyond question. I have been interested, especially because it is a matter that has been before referred to in my Boston letter. The great trouble that a single umpire in a game had to-day is in the decisions of second base, and the umpires all say that it is impossible to make a decision upon a pitched ball, and then run up the diamond to settle the point. The question is one that the Committee on Rules cannot deliberate upon too carefully. The question of expense is the one that will undoubtedly weigh heavily upon their verdict, but there can be no doubt that with two umpires kicking and the disgraceful scenes that have been witnessed at only too many games will be reduced to a minimum, if not obliterated altogether.

When Munson of St. Louis called upon me last week, and after we entered into conversation, he was asked by a newspaper man present how much 'der" Browns had made during the season. "Very little," he said—"perhaps $10,000 or $15,000." "Remove your nine to Boston," I said, "and we'll guarantee you $150,000 clear the first season." Munson admitted that this was a great ball town, and expected to see a realization in the St. Louis-Detroit game. He may be disappointed. Bostonians don't turn out in cold weather worth a cent.

I expect that the Chicagos will sign Slattery before snow flies. When Spalding wants a man, money is no object. He gets full value for all investments. Look at Martin Sullivan, who stands well up in the list of batsmen. Slattery is a great runner, and in my next I want to tell how he came to play professionally.

THE WORKING OF THE NEW RULES.

The new code of playing rules for 1887 has been tested through the experience of a whole season's campaign, and it can be said with truth that no amendments made to the playing rules within the past decade have given greater satisfaction in their beneficial effect, in advancing the game towards the point of a perfected code, than the new rules of 1887. With but one prominent exception they have worked admirably, and that exception is the rule giving the credit of a "base hit" on "a base on balls." This amendment utterly failed in the object its author—John Ward—had in view, which was to make pitchers more careful in their delivery, in order to avoid the penalty of the extra base hit charged against them. Moreover, it had the effect of lessening the chances for increased batting, by causing batsmen to wait for bases on balls, which thereby gave them base hits without the risk of making them by really good hits. Another trouble which has arisen from this base-hit-on-balls rule, has been that of entirely destroying the usefulness of the batting averages as a criterion of batting skill. The absurdity of giving a batsman credit for safe hits on the basis of hits credited to bases on balls is very apparent. Then, too, the accompanying absurdity of basing earned runs on the data of base hits on called balls is another objectionable feature. But it needs no argument in reality to show up this one weak point of the new code. On the other hand, the strong points of the existing rules are the marked improvement in controlling the method of delivery of the pitcher; the reduction of called balls from six to five; the increase of called strikes from three to four, and the changes made in defining balks. In this respect the season's experience has shown conclusively that all that is now needed in governing the movements of the pitcher in delivering the ball to the bat is to make the wording of some of the sections a little more explicit, so as to make the correct interpretation clearer. But not a point of the new code needs changing in respect to giving a base on five called balls, putting the batsman out on four called strikes, or in keeping the occupant of the pitcher's box down to the existing restrictions in regard to keeping his foot on the ground, and to limitations of the rules in reference to his making a balk. In regard to the rule prohibiting the "bunting" of foul balls, a slight change in the wording of the section covering this point seems necessary, and that is to inflict the penalty of a called strike on a bunted foul ball after one such foul ball has been hit. The object of amending this rule originally was to do away with repeated bunts of foul balls, and this only. It was not intended to check bunting of fair balls; but, as the rule is now interpreted, it has that effect. To call a strike on the second bunted foul ball would answer every purpose in checking such foul-ball hitting, while it would not check fair-ball bunting, as it now does. A bunted fair ball, backed up by judgment in placing the ball, and by sharp base-running, yields a creditably earned base as fully as a regular base hit does. It will be seen, therefore, that, while no radical change is suggested in this rule, a modification is advisable to the extent referred to.

The rule preventing the lifting of the pitcher's foot before the ball is delivered is an excellent one, its effect being to check the wild, swift pitching incident to the old jumping-jack method of delivery. While the pitcher, under the existing rule, can benefit by all the speed necessary to help him in his strategic work in the box, the rule forces him to rely more upon obtaining a good command of the ball, so as to avoid the penalty of a base on balls, rather than upon the intimidating effects of great speed, a consequence thereof being costly punishment of catchers, besides making tedious pitchers' games more frequent. This keeping of the foot down, combined with the rule of a base on five called balls, keeps the pitching within fair bounds; while this, and the rule of allowing the batsman four called strikes, gives the batsman a better per cent. of chances against the pitching. Even as it is, the pitcher has the best of the rule. To reduce the number of called strikes would check the batting badly. The new rules governing the delivery of the ball as far as balks are concerned have worked far more satisfactorily than many anticipated. In fact, base-running has neither been made easier, to any marked extent, nor has it been checked. In regard to the interpretation of stolen bases, it certainly appears fair that fielding errors, which are really chargable to efforts to check base-running, should not deprive the runner of the credit of a stolen base when it is plainly shown that he has started to steal a base before the error was committed; but it does not follow that the error which helped to give the base should not be charged to the fielder committing it, even if it does not prevent the credit of a stolen base. Nor should the error be condoned by the fact that the stolen base is credited to the runner, despite the error.

In regard to charging errors for bases on balls and batsmen hit by pitched balls, while these are errors distinctly belonging to battery work, and not legitimate fielding errors, nevertheless it is questionable whether it would not be better to charge them in the error column, as regular fielding errors are. In view of the fact, however, that opinions vary so materially among official scorers as to what are chargeable as errors and what are not, the point comes up for consideration as to whether it would not be better to throw out the individual column of errors and bunch them as "fielding" and "battery" errors in the summary. But spice forbids further comment on this fruitful topic until another issue.

AN exhibition game was played Oct. 16, at Ridgewood Park, between the St. Louis and Brooklyn Clubs. At one time it looked as if the American Association champions might be whitewashed. The unexpected issue of the contest was due mainly to remarkably effective pitching by Terry, excellent support given him in the field, and the good play at the bat shown by the Brooklyn players. The Browns put in Hudson, and the Brooklyn batsman got on his pitching in lively style, opening with four safe hits, yielding as many runs. This lead was supplemented in the fourth inning with another dash at the bat, which sent in four more runs. Greer getting home on a two-bagger owing to the ball being lost. Errors by McClellan and Peoples saved the American Association champions from being shut out, the final score at the end of the ninth inning being 10 to 3 in favor of Brooklyn. The two teams play at Ridgewood again next Sunday, unless arrangements are made to play one of Detroit-St. Louis games at Chicago or Cincinnati.

THE Philadelphia team's record from Sept. 14—the day they lost their last game in Chicago—to the close of the season is unprecedented in the club's history. It includes three straight victories from Boston, Indianapolis, Pittsburg and New York, and two each from Detroit and Washington. From the latter club they have won nine straight games after their last defeat, July 25. Exclusive of their exhibition game with Detroit, Sept. 21, they had won sixteen consecutive championship victories up to Oct. 8, the close of the season.

IN the contest at West Farms Oct. 10, Thomas, the first baseman of the Cuban Giants, in his swing of the arm in putting out Richardson of the New York team, hit him severely on the cheek and fractured the cheek bone so as to lay him up for the season. Weidman has been playing second base since, and covering the position finely.

THE WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP.

St. Louis vs. Detroit.

The second game was played Oct. 11 in St. Louis, Mo., fully ten thousand people being then present, although the weather was cold and blustery. A change was made in the Detroit team, Ganzel taking the place of Twitchell and playing first base, while Conway was substituted for Getzein as pitcher. This change worked admirably, the League champions scoring a victory. The St. Louis substituted Boyle for Bushong as catcher, while Foutz and Caruthers exchanged positions. Boyle threw poorly to the bases and Foutz was hit hard by Bennett and Thompson. The visitors took the lead in the second inning, when a muff by Welch, a base on balls given White, and a safe hit by Bennett brought in two runs. Two wild throws by Latham let in two more runs in the third inning, and a fumble by Gleason gave another run in the seventh. The home team were blanked up to the seventh inning, when a three bagger by Welch and a single by Robinson earned one run. In the eighth Latham took first on balls and scored on a safe hit by Comiskey, who came home on a wild throw by Bennett.

No fewer than thirteen innings were necessary to decide the question of victory Oct. 12, when these clubs contended in Detroit, Mich., in the presence of between seven and eight thousand people. The St. Louis Browns batted Getzein freely, but their hits were badly scattered, except in the second inning, when singles by Comiskey, Caruthers and Robinson earned their only run. Two wild throws by Caruthers after two men were out in the eighth inning enabled the Detroits to make their first run. The score stood tied until the last half of the thirteenth inning, when Getzein led off with a safe hit, went to second and third on successive outs at first, and scored the winning run on a fumble of Rowe's hit. Caruthers again pitched with remarkable effectiveness, holding the Detroits down to six scattering singles.

The American Association champions were shut out Oct. 13 in Pittsburg, Pa., being unable to make more than two safe hits off Baldwin, who was supported almost perfectly in the field. The Detroits got a winning lead in the first inning, when two-baggers by Richardson and Thompson and singles by Dunlap and Bennett yielded four runs. Errors by Gleason and two passed balls brought in three more runs, and a three-bagger by Dunlap and an out earned another run. Dunlap and Thompson did the best batting, and the former excelled in fielding. Baldwin was very effective, while King was batted freely from the start.

Although Friday, Oct. 14, was a cold, blustering day, and the price of admission to the Washington Park grounds and grand stand was just double the customary rates, the largest crowd of spectators seen on the grounds since Decoration-day assembled to witness the fifth game of the series between the St. Louis and Detroit teams, and they saw one of the best played and most exciting contest seen in Brooklyn this year, the play under the circumstances of the strong northwest wind which blew in from the outfield being remarkably fine. Caruthers occupied the box for St. Louis and Conway for Detroit, and both did effective and strategic work in their positions, only two runs on each side being clean earned off their pitching. Caruthers was punished for but seven safe hits, and Conway for five only, the three extra runs scored by St. Louis being due to battery errors, not a fielding or battery error on the St. Louis side yielding a run. A base on balls, a pitched ball hitting a batsman, and a high throw by Baldwin to second aided in putting Latham and Gleason on unearned bases in the first inning, and good base-stealing and O'Neil's safe hit enabled them to score two runs at the outset. From that time to the fifth inning not a run was scored, the Detroits not making a safe hit until the fifth inning off Caruthers' pitching, and the St. Louis batsmen did not get another hit in after O'Neil's until the sixth. In the fifth inning, after two men were out, Dunlap earned his base by a good grounder, Bennett followed with a two-bagger, and Hanlon with a safe single, two runs being clean earned, tieing the score of the Browns—2 to 2. In the sixth inning, the St. Louis batsmen made a fine rally to regain the lost lead, and after two men were out, Caruthers and Foutz made successive singles, and Welch sent them home with a telling grounder to left field, on which two bases were made, the inning closing with the score of 4 to 2 in favor of St. Louis. A single by Latham, a wild pitch, and Gleason being hit again by a pitched ball, aided in giving another run in the seventh inning, after which no more were scored in the game, though the Detroits added four base hits in their last four innings, but five men were left on bases. The umpiring on this game was excellent, the new plan of relieving the umpire behind the bat from the double difficulty of judging balls and base running, being an unquestioned improvement. Besides which, the latter umpire can act as referee in cases of questioned decisions on base running. In fact, the new rule solves one of the problems connected with the bringing about of perfect umpiring. The National League ought to adopt the plan, even if it does involve some extra expense. Mayor Whitney, of Brooklyn, occupied President Byrne's private-box, and Presidents Stearns, of the Detroit Club, and Von Der Ahe, of the St. Louis, were in Director Boyle's box. In the latter box, too, were the veteran, Theo. Bomeisler, and his son, and also John B. Sage, of Buffalo.

The St. Louis and Detroit teams ended the first week of their world's championship campaign, Oct. 15, at the Polo Grounds, when a large assemblage witnessed the Detroit team play the finest game of ball ever exhibited at their hands in this city, the result being the signal defeat of the St. Louis team. This ending of the contest was due to the remarkable pitching of Getzein and the splendid support given him in the field. Foutz's pitching was badly punished in the first two innings, when the Detroit batsmen bunched seven safe hits and scored six runs, thus giving them a long lead. From this point down to the end of the eighth inning Foutz got down to better work in the box, and for six successive innings the Detroit batsmen were retired without adding a run to their score, fine double plays in the fifth and eighth innings disposing of them after they had earned bases by safe hits. In the ninth inning Foutz weakened badly, giving no fewer than three men their bases on balls, one of which was given when three men were on bases, thus forcing in a run. This wild pitching, together with a muff by Gleason and a wild throw by Bushong, gave the Detroits three unearned runs. The Browns made a plucky effort in the ninth inning to escape being blanked, after a double-play by Ganzel and White had retired Latham and Gleason, O'Neil and Comiskey then hitting safely, but being left, as Caruthers flew out to Thompson. Ganzel's fine play at first base equaled Brouthers' best efforts, while the veteran White and Dunlap played their positions admirably. Bennett's catching was quite a feature. The pitching of Getzein, however, was the strong point of the Detroit's work, it being a model exhibition of skillful work in the box. The Browns' errors were few and far between, while their fine plays were numerous, and the battery work effective in six out of the nine innings. Caruthers' out fielding was quite a feature, and a fine double-play by O'Neil from a running catch elicited great applause.

THE WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP.

Detroit vs. St. Louis.

Upwards of eight thousand people witnessed the seventh game between these clubs, which was played Oct. 17 in Philadelphia, Pa., the Detroits then being credited with their fifth victory. Lyons was substituted for Gleason, who had been playing very poorly at short stop. Thompson and White led off in the second inning with singles, and Dunlap gave Robinson a chance for a double play, but he fumbled the ball and got only one out. A bit of bad judgment by Bushong in throwing to third instead of first base after muffing Bennett's fourth strike was then followed by a safe hit by Hanlon, and three runs were thus made, only one of which was earned. The St. Louis did not score until the ninth inning, when, after two men were out, Baldwin muffed a foul fly hit by O'Neil, who then took advantage of it by batting the ball over the centre-field fence for a home run. Comiskey followed with a two-bagger, and Caruthers with a single, on which the former could have scored, but preferred to wait on third. Thompson ended the contest by a good running catch at right-centre. Welch made two great running catches, and Thompson did the best batting.

THE SOUTHERN LEAGUE

closed on Oct. 10 closed its season, which was a disastrous one, both financially and otherwise. The League started with six clubs: New Orleans, Charleston, Memphis, Nashville, Savannah and Mobile. The Mobile and Savannah Clubs soon disbanded, and the Birmingham team being admitted the League rearranged its schedule and started out afresh with five clubs. The Nashville Club was the next to disband, but the other four clubs continued the season through, the final standing being as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	Per ct. Won.		Won.	Lost.	Per ct. Won.
New Orleans.	75	40	.652	Memphis.	66	53	.559
Charleston.	66	41	.617	Birmingham.	19	63	.231

THE NORTHWESTERN LEAGUE

closed its championship season Oct. 13, with the Oshkosh team winners of the pennant. For the past two months the four leading clubs had been closely bunched together. The Milwaukees, after leading the greater part of the season, finally finished a good second. The season's record:

	Won.	Lost.	Per ct. Won.		Won.	Lost.	Per ct. Won.

THE New York and Philadelphia teams intend starting next Tuesday, Oct. 25, on a trip on the co-operative plan to California. The New Yorks will include: Keefe, pitcher; Brown, catcher; Connor, Richardson and Denny on the bases; Ward, short-stop, and Tiernan, Ewing and Mike Kelly in the out field. The New Yorks will play in Cincinnati Oct. 29, 30, Memphis Nov. 1, Nashville Nov. 2 and in New Orleans for about a week, and after a tour through Texas will arrive on the Pacific Coast about 24, Thanksgiving-day. The Philadelphia players are Ferguson and Maul, pitchers; Clements and McGuire, catchers; Mulvey, third base; Irwin, short-stop, and Wood and Fogarty in the out-field. Foster, late of the Milwaukee Club, will be the ninth man, and James Hart of that club will act as manager. This combination will play in Cincinnati, Denver and other cities, arriving in San Francisco Nov. 6.

THE Mets visited Washington, D. C., last week, and played three games with the National League team of that city. The first contest, Oct. 11, resulted in a walk-over for the home team, the figures being 10 to 2. The tables were turned the following day, when the Mets won by 12 to 8. This necessitated a third and deciding game, the home team then winning by 3 to 2, making all their runs in the ninth inning.

THE series of games between the Athletic and Philadelphia Clubs commenced Oct. 12 on the latter's grounds in Philadelphia, Pa., the score standing a tie at 3 after ten innings had been played. On the following day the Philadelphias won by 6 to 5. The Athletics then scored two successive victories by scores of 11 to 6 and 10 to 9. Four more games are to be played this week.

ED. MORRIS, pitcher of the Pittsburg Club, while playing in a game Oct. 15 was hit in the temple by a pitched ball, and was knocked senseless. He was taken to his home, and for a time it was thought his temple bone was crushed, but upon examination it was found that, while severely injured, there was nothing dangerous, though the blow will probably lay him up for several weeks.

A COMMITTEE of the National League Brotherhood, consisting of Ward of the New York Club, Irwin of the Philadelphia, and Hanlon of the Detroit, met Oct. 17 in Philadelphia, Pa., and formulated a new contract for players, which will be submitted to the League at its next annual meeting.

THE finest catch of the week's series between the Detroit and St. Louis teams was that made by Dave Foutz at St. Louis, when he caught a long hit ball from Dunlap's bat, and reached up for the ball and held it as it was going over the picket-fence of the grounds.

THE best pitching of the week was that of Getzein in the 9 to 0 game at the Polo Grounds, and Caruther's exhibition on the occasion of the thirteen innings game, when the Detroit batsmen made only six safe hits off his pitching in the whole thirteen innings.

THE receipts at the first week's games of the World's Championship series were enough to pay the whole expenses of the trip, not a rainy day, after the opening games, marring the financial success of the series.

THE old Metropolitan second baseman, Elmer Foster, has done yeoman service in the field and at the bat for the Minneapolis team, and he is wanted in League, as well as American teams. Who will get him?

A HANDSOME silver cup has been given by A. G. Spalding & Brothers to the International League. The trophy is three feet high, and is to become the property of the club winning the championship three seasons.

THE Baltimore and Washington Clubs commenced a series of games Oct. 14. The Washingtons won twice by 10 to 4 and 5 to 2. The Baltimores' only victory was by 7 to 5.

FRED CARROLL is the winner of the prize bat presented by Spalding Bros. for the best batting done in the Pittsburg team in 1887. Carroll's percentage was .380, he playing in 101 games.

MILLER led the Pittsburg team in stealing bases this season, Dairymple being second and Coleman third.

THE most successful stealer of bases in the Detroit team this season was Hanlon, Brouthers being second and "Deacon" White third.

DR. OBERLANDER, the leading pitcher of Scranton's team, is the latest acquisition to its battery strength made by the Cleveland Club.

A TEAM of the New York Club visited South Norwalk, Ct., Oct. 12, and defeated the local team by 19 to 1.

PRESIDENT STERN, on behalf of the Cincinnati Club, has challenged the Detroits to play Oct. 26 in Cincinnati, O., the winners to take the receipts.

TED SULLIVAN will not manage the Washington team next season, and it is more than likely that Gaffney will be retained.

AN effort is being made by the Syracuse Stars to secure the services as manager of C. M. Hackett, late of the Newark Club.

TWO exhibition games were played Oct. 16 and 17 in Cincinnati, O., the home team then defeating the Clevelands by 8 to 0 and 13 to 5.

HORACE B. PHILLIPS has been chosen manager of the Pittsburg Club for another season.

THERE is but little doubt of Clarkson being a Boston pitcher in 1888. He is a remarkably fine pitcher, an educated and intelligent player, and has been an earnest worker for the Chicago Club, and President Spalding and Manager Anson hold him in high estimation. He could command a high salary with them in 1888, but he says, very pertinently: "My home is in Boston, and all the domestic ties I have centre there. I am anxious to have a house of my own, and to fit it up as a permanent residence. In Chicago I am obliged to board, and no boarding-house will ever seem to me like home. I have a good trade, and my father needs my assistance in his business. I have carefully considered what I believe to be my true interests and those of my wife and relatives, and have decided to make my home in Boston." This settles it. Mr. Spalding is not the man to release a player in his employ nolens volens, and, as Boston will pay liberally for his release, that club will undoubtedly get his services in 1888.

IN the Boston-Washington game in Washington on Oct. 7 Kelly played a point successfully which is worthy of note. Kelly was at first-base, when Wise hit a ball so sharply that it reached Myers at short-stop before Kelly had a chance to start for second, and a double-play seemed certain. But as no one was covering second and Wise was sprinting along to first at a great rate, Myers threw the ball to O'Brien; as Kelly saw it coming he quietly took his foot off the bag till the ball touched O'Brien's hands, and then stepped back before Billy could touch him. "Striker out," said Doescher, and, after O'Brien had puzzled his brains for about ten minutes over the way he missed that double-play, he concluded it must have been because Kelly could think about twice as quick as he could.

SIMON BURNS, the veteran pitcher of the old Mutual nine of twenty years ago, has returned to New York after many years' absence in the South. He proposes to take part in the match between the veteran Atlantics and a picked nine of old New York players, which John Zeller and Galvin are getting up, to be played this month at Washington Park or at Ridgewood. All veterans desirous of joining in this veterans' game should notify Zeller at Lockwood's restaurant, Flatbush avenue, Brooklyn. The Atlantics who will play in it are Ferguson, Pearce, Chapman, Pike, Galvin, Tom Pratt, Sid Smith, Fred Crane, Frank Seinsoth and George Phelps. The New Yorkers will include Zeller, Burns, Davis, De Bost, Yates, Thorn, Howe and others of the old Knickerbocker, Eagle, Empire, Gotham and Mutual clubs.

THE championship of the metropolis is to be competed for in a series of games between the Brooklyn and Metropolitan Clubs at Washington Park, Brooklyn, this week, scheduled for Oct. 18, 19 and 20, best two out of three, between the Mets and the Brooklyns. As the New York Club people backed out of their games with the Brooklyn team arranged for last week, and also declined the challenge to play the Mets, the championship series will lie between the Brooklyns and Metropolitans. In the American championship series between them they stand even, nine to nine, in games won. This new series, therefore, is to settle the question of the local championship, and the contests bid fair to be exciting.

THE poorest attendance for a season's campaign in the American Association arena in 1887 was that in St. Louis, though at times exceptionally large crowds were gathered. President Von Der Ahe should bear this in mind, and make the contests less one sided than they were, by evening things up a little with the weaker teams in 1888. The Cincinnati, Louisville and Baltimore games alone were profitable. It is an important fact that the most pecuniarily profitable seasons of the St. Louis team were those in which they failed to win the pennant.

WARD leads the League record at stolen bases with a credit of 110 in 129 games; Fogarty is second with a credit of 106 in 126 games; Mike Kelly third with 82 in 114 games; Glasscock fourth with 71 in 121; Hanlon fifth with 62 in 118; Williamson sixth with 58 in 127; Andrews seventh with 55 in 99, and Nash and Johnston eighth and ninth with 50 in 118 and 50 in 124. All the others made less than 50 stolen bases.

THE Philadelphia Club will make the fewest changes in the make-up of their team for 1888 of any club in the League. They only need an extra baseman and outfielder, and they will get them. Their batting players cannot be improved upon, nor the captain of their team, and their infield and outfield corps have no specially weak spots, though each has a single opening, in order to be ready for accidents.

TOPEKA, which this season won the Western League pennant, will have no team in the new League in 1888. Goldsby of the Topekas will manage for Denver, and Jim Manning, late of Detroit, will manage for Kansas City, Ardner, Dan Stearns, Halliday and Johnson of this year's Topekas going to play with the Kansas City team.

THE world's championship contests in the metropolis have entirely killed the interest taken in the local Fall exhibition games—so much so, indeed, that the majority of the games scheduled have been given up. Only the Sunday games pay, all the interest being centered in the Detroit-St. Louis series.

THE St. Louis Club will own a team in the new Western League in 1888, the players of which will be made available for use for Von Der Ahe's American team. It is for this extra team that Lyons, Meister, Devlin and others have been recently engaged by St. Louis.

AMONG the poorest base-runners of the season in the League were Pitchers Keefe, Getzein, Casey, McCormick, Morris, Welch, Maul, Healy, Shaw, Gilmore and Stemmeyer, the last four not stealing a single base, while the others were only credited with one each.

THE New York team, with George and Brown as the battery, defeated the Cuban Giants by 11 to 5 at the Long Island grounds on Sunday, before a crowd of about a thousand people. George's wild, swift pitching intimidated the Cuban batsmen, and battery errors gave them several runs.

THE Boston triumvirate, Messrs. Soden, Conant and Billings, while viewing the satisfactory financial outcome of their $10,000 investment last Spring, and smiling as they read the credit account on the cash-books for 1887, do not like the accompanying fact of the team's closing fifth in the race.

THE Phillies bear off the palm in defeating opposing League teams in the championship arena the most games in a series, they having defeated Indianapolis in 17 games out of the series of 18. In the American arena St. Louis takes the lead with 18 out of 19 with Cleveland.

THE Pittsburg team has a new left-handed pitcher named Hayes, who pitched in the first Wheeling game the Pittsburgs played in, on Oct. 11, when they won by 15 to 3. In the second game Morrison of Wheeling pitched against Morris, and the Pittsburgs were defeated by 1 to 0.

THE Athletic Club's team stands alone in the Association as having escaped being whitewashed in any championship contest, of course excepting the 9 to 0 forfeited game, "which don't count." They had five drawn games, but nary a "Chicago"

THE great day for signing new contracts by the League and American Association clubs is Thursday, Oct. 20, when there will be times of rejoicing in some quarters, and of wailing and gnashing of teeth in others.

THE Detroit team has won every series of games in the championship arena this season, except against Chicago, Chicago winning the series by 10 games to 8; while the Chicago Club has won every series except with Pittsburg.

THE Baltimore team's success this season is largely due to the effective pitching of Kilroy, Greenwood's fine play at second base, Tucker's good work at first and Griffin's centre-field play.

THE last game in the Northwestern League championship race was played Oct. 13 at Des Moines, the team in that city defeating the Duluth team 13 to 4.

WELCH has gone to his home in Holyoke, after a creditable season's work, under circumstances in which he was decidedly handicapped.

CHICAGO has been trying O'Connell, the pitcher of the Waterbury Eastern League team. He helped them to a victory last week.

HENGLE has secured the pick of the Oshkosh team for the Chicago Club's use in 1888. Anson will work them up into first-class material.

HECKER, Werrick and White are not in accord with the Louisville management, for some reason or other. In fact, they are a disgruntled trio, and want to play in some other team in 1888, and the chances are that Hecker, at least, will leave. He wants to go to Brooklyn, and he is just the man they want as a partner for Terry and Toole. He is not only one of the crack pitchers of the Association, but a splendid first baseman and outfielder, and excels in base running and batting. It is just such a man as he is that Brooklyn wants, and that club will get him if he leaves Louisville.

THE attendance at the Washington Park grounds on Friday last exceeded that at the Polo on Saturday by over 2 000 people, though the weather was far more favorable on Saturday than Friday, and the day a better one for a favorable attendance. The aggregate attendance at both games was about 13,000 people at half a dollar admission. Twice the number occupied grand-stand seats at Brooklyn to what they did at the Polo Grounds, the impression being that the admission would be one dollar.

THE fielding averages of the League, as far as pitcher's records are concerned, are useless, as the mistake has again been made by President Young of mixing up the battery figures of assistances on strikes with the fielding assistances, and thus render it impossible to tell what kind of a fielding record a pitcher makes. He may strike out ten players in a game and only field two out by assistances, and yet by the absurd rule in vogue he is given credit for twelve fielding assistances.

THE Central Park improvements on 110th street, for which plans have been completed and the work laid out to be begun the first week in March next, may necessitate a change of base on the part of the New York Club, which will locate the diamond on the field fronting the northwest corner of the grounds, and the grand stand then be removed from its present site to a position fronting the old club house, with the free stands on the left and right of it.

ONE great drawback to the Boston Club's success this season has been the efforts made by a majority of the team to excel in record play at the cost of team work. The club should set its foot down upon the custom of having its players compete for record prizes. It is death to effective team work to allow it. That effort to win silver bats and gold medals cost the club the loss of many a championship game, and don't let that fact escape your memory, Mr. Soden.

THE tail-enders of the National League and American Association played a series of five games last week in Indianapolis, Ind. The home team won the first three by the respective scores of 12 to 2, 8 to 2 and 6 to 1, while the Clevelands captured two games by scores of 9 to 5 and 11 to 10.

THE Cincinnatis defeated the Chicagos in three out of five games played last week in Cincinnati, O., and Chicago, Ill., the final figures then being 12 to 1, 12 to 3 and 10 to 6. The Chicagos on their own grounds won by scores of 17 to 4 and 6 to 5.

THE TURF.

EQUINE SPORT AT LEXINGTON.

Threatening weather was largely responsible for he small gathering of turf patrons on the grounds of the Kentucky Racing Association at Lexington on the opening day of the Fall meeting, Monday, Oct. 17. The track, however, was in excellent condition, and those present were well repaid for their visit. Result: Purse $250, penalties and allowances, six furlongs—G. H. Kernaghan's Burch, aged, 107, Sayers, the favorite, first, in 1:15¾; Carnegie, 3—108, and Valuable, 3—113, Hathaway, a dead heat for second place, by a head only. RACING AT CLIFTON.

There being no racing anywhere else in the vicinity of New York, the assemblage at the course on Monday, 17, was very large, while the weather was balmy, the track in capital condition and the betting lively. Laura Evans dislocated the knee of her right foreleg, and it was thought she would have to be killed. THE NATIONAL JOCKEY CLUB will hold their Autumn meeting at Washington, D. C., commencing Oct. 25, and continuing five days. Should the weather prove favorable, it is the intention to tack on four extra days to the programme already laid out by the genial secretary, Hugh McIntyre. The latter bears a striking resemblance to the Secretary of the Navy, for whom he is occasionally taken while strolling up Pennsylvania avenue.

THE Fall meeting at the West-side Park, Nashville, Tenn., will open Oct. 27, and continue six days, with a probability of three extra days. Accommodations are provided for four hundred horses. The track is unusually fast. Reduced rates have been effected with all railroads entering the city, and the prospects for a successful meeting are very encouraging.

GEORGE SMITH, better known as "Pittsburg Phil," whose success in picking winners and playing them for big money has filled his pockets and made him a marked man, will spend the Winter abroad.

JEROME PARK RACES.

Large Crowds and Fine Racing—The Northern Season Ends.

Threatening weather deterred many persons from visiting the course of the American Jockey Club on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 11, yet there was a very good attendance, and as the rain which fell during the preceding night and in the morning did not spoil the track, the racing was first-rate. It was a good day for Garrison, who carried off three races, including the Hunter Stakes, in which Firenzi showed excellent form, and the Grand National Handicap, for which Linden defeated Volante, Eurus and Laggard. Result: Handicap sweepstakes, for all ages, $25 each, $750 added, $150 to second, a mile and a sixteenth.....McMahon & Garrison's Eolian, 4—119, Garrison, the favorite, first, in 1:53; Royal Arch, 6—106, Rafferty, second, by a length; Tarbouche, 3—94, R. A decided fall in the temperature made overcoats and wraps very useful articles of apparel on Wednesday, when the weather was clear and the track excellent, while the attendance was below the average. Kingston was the only favorite that won, and he was given a good race by Richmond, who had been scratched in the preceding event, in the belief that he could beat the son of Spendthrift, and the latter was well backed by the stable and the public. Result: Handicap sweepstakes, for all ages, $50 each, h. f., $750 added, $150 to second, allowances, five furlongs, straight—W. T. Taylor's Sam Harper Jr., aged, 111, Adams, first, in 1:02¼; Stuyvesant, 3—113, Garrison, favorite, second, by a neck; Rosarium, 5—94, Williams, third, a length behind. .....Purse $500, selling allowances, six furlongs—Lamasney Bros.' Cruiser, 96, Williams, first, in 1:18; Theora, 87, Kane, second, by three-quarters of a length; Fordham, 115, J. McLaughlin, the favorite, third, three lengths away.....Handicap sweepstakes, for all ages, $50 each, $1,000 added, $150 to second, a mile and a furlong—Appleby & Johnson's Bradford, 3—105, Church, first, in 2:00; Argo, 4—99, Williams, second, by two lengths; Waukesha, 5—103, H. Cornehlsen's King Crab, 2—109, Church, first, in 1:17; George Oyster, 2—116, Garrison, the favorite, second, by a length; Banner Bearer, 4—120, Hayward, third, eight lengths away.

The expectation of witnessing a great race for the Jerome Stakes between Hanover and Firenzi had the effect of bringing a large crowd to the grounds on the 13th, when the weather was beautiful and the track in superb condition. The contest between the three-year-olds named, who were the only starters in the event, did not prove as exciting as had been anticipated, although the result was a surprise to the majority of those present, for Hanover, who was made quite a strong favorite, was easily beaten at the finish by three lengths, it being evident that he was short of work, while the filly was in the acme of condition. The winner was ridden by Garrison, who again captured three races, putting him eight ahead of McLaughlin in the list of winning mounts. Result: Handicap sweepstakes, for three-year-olds and upwards, $20 each, $600 added, $100 to second, six furlongs—McMahon & Garrison's Cyclops, 4—122, Garrison, the favorite, first, in 1:17¼; Rosalind, 3—92, Winchell, second, by a neck; Ovid, 3—107, third, two lengths off.....Handicap sweepstakes, for two-year-olds, $20 each, $500 added, $100 to second, six furlongs—A. Belmont's Belinda, 114, McCarthy, first, in 1:17; Speedwell, 103, Rafferty, second, by a length and a half; King Crab, 112, Church, the favorite, third, two lengths away.....The Jerome Stakes, for three-year-olds, $100 each, h. f., $1,000 added, $300 to second, penalties and allowances, a mile and six furlongs—J. B. Haggin's Firenzi, 122, Garrison, first, in 3:09¾; Hanover, 125, McLaughlin, the favorite, second, three lengths behind. The favorite took the track at the fall of the flag, and held the lead until the last furlong, when Firenzi, who had been running under a pull, was given her head, and, going to the front like a shot, won as stated above. McLaughlin was brought to the whip as they entered the homestretch, but all the persuasion used availed not. The manner in which Firenzi won this event would seem to render almost certain her success in the Citizens' Handicap of $5,000, to be run at the Baltimore meeting next week, in which the filly will have to carry but 110lb.....Handicap sweepstakes, for all ages, $50 each, $1,000 added, $250 to second, a mile and a quarter—Summit Stable's Royal Arch, 6—106, Rafferty, first, in 2:11½; Ben Ali, 4—118, Garrison, the favorite, second, by two lengths; Lady Primrose, 3—108, Church, third, half a length away. Royal Arch ran away nearly three-quarters of a mile before the flag fell, after which he sulked somewhat, but got off well and came with a terrific burst of speed at the finish. .....Purse $500, for three-year-olds and upward, to carry 7lb above the scale, selling allowances, a mile and a sixteenth—T. McCaull's Choctaw, 6—119, Garrison, first, in 1:53; Nettle, aged, 102, Rafferty, second, by a length and a half; Wanderment, 5—107, Church, third, half a length away.....Purse $500, of which $100 to second, handicap steeplechase, over the short course—W. Lakeland's Littlefellow, 5—137, Callahan, first, in 3:16; Jim McGowan, 6—169, Post, second, by three lengths; Retribution, 5—135, Henshaw, third, a length away.

Friday being an extra day, there was not so large a crowd as usual present. The weather was clear, cool and somewhat blustery, while the track was good, although somewhat dusty. Result: Free handicap sweepstakes, $25 each, $750 added, $150 to second, six furlongs—S. S. Brown's Stuyvesant, 4—116, Garrison, the favorite, first, in 1:17; Mamie Hunt, 4—113, Hamilton, second, by a neck; Wilfred, 3—97, Williams, third, by a short head..... Free handicap sweepstakes, for two-year-olds, $25 each, $750 added, $50 to second, half a mile—E. J. Baldwin's Emperor of Norfolk, 125, I. Murphy, the favorite, first, in 0:49¼; Leo H., 117, Hamilton, second, by four lengths; Cascade, 103, Church, third, three lengths away.....Purse $200, for three-year-olds and upwards that had not won this year, six furlongs—P. W. Weingardt's Wellington, 6—146, Billings, the favorite, first, in 3:15; Harborough, 5—145, Henshaw, second, by a head; Hercules, 4—140, G. Lynch, third, beaten off.

A tremendous crowd witnessed the racing on Saturday, the closing day of a highly successful meeting, and as four of the events were won by favorites the money bet was very evenly divided between the layers of odds and their patrons, the bookmakers reimbursing themselves over the result of the last two races. The weather was chilly, with a high east wind blowing. Handicap sweepstakes, for all ages, $25 each, $750 added, $150 to second, seven furlongs—D. A. Honig's Mamie Hunt, 4—112, Hamilton, the favorite, first, in 1:31; Harry Russell, 4—110, Rafferty, second, by a length; Rosalind, 3—95, Winchell, third.....Handicap sweepstakes, for two-year-olds, $25 each, $750 added, $150 to second, six furlongs—W. D. Withers' Laggard, 3—106, Church, the favorite, first, in 1:58¼; Richmond, 5—117, Hamilton, second, by two lengths; King of Norfolk, 4—94, Neumeyer, third, close up. Lady Primrose, 3—103, led at the start, but was instantly pulled back by Rafferty, who was thought by many to have ridden the mare very badly.....Handicap sweepstakes, $50 each, $1,250 added, $350 to second, a mile and a half—D. A. Honig's Phil Lee, 4—105, Church, first, in 1:17½; Choctaw, 6—125, Garrison, the favorite, second, by two lengths; Miss Mouse, 3—93, Weber, third, half a length behind. A WONDERFUL BICYCLE.

A number of gentlemen interested in the adaptation of cycles to military purposes assembled at Hanwell yesterday afternoon to witness some trials and experiments with a bicycle which has been constructed by Messrs. Wilkins & Co., of Holborn Viaduct. The bicycle, which in its general outward appearance resembles a machine of the familiar safety type, was put through a series of the most extraordinary tests, with a result which greatly astonished and amused the onlookers. Starting from the centre of the town, a man rode the machine over half a mile or so of road to the bank of the River Brent, where, dismounting, he proceeded to blow into a couple of small bags attached to the handles. The inflation occupied about a minute, and then the rider, having thrown his bicycle into the water, dived after it, swam across and landed on the other side.

He then rode over three or four miles of very rough and varied country, including plowed fields and swampy meadows, and, having recrossed the river regained Hanwell by some very rough lanes, lifting his machine over the closed gates. Altogether he covered a distance of about five miles, and his time was a little more than forty-one minutes. Subsequently a few well-known cyclists, who were among the visitors, tried the machine and rode over the most uneven ground, up and down short and sharp hills, bricks and other obstructions in a manner that greatly surprised military men and others who were present.—St. James Gazette.

AMERICANS WIN.

The Aylestone Road Grounds, Leicester, Eng., were visited by about three thousand persons on Oct. 1, when the attraction was a ten-mile lap race between Richard Howell, the English champion, and W. M. Woodside, champion of America, for $125 a side. Twenty-seven laps were required to complete the distance, and the rider first past the judges' post the greater number of times was to be declared the winner. The weather was fine, though rather cold, and the path in good shape. It is stated to have been the greatest struggle, taken all through, ever witnessed on these grounds, Woodside landing the twenty-sixth lap by a few inches and ultimately winning the match by fourteen laps to twelve, one lap having been a tie. Afterwards Ralph Temple, another member of the American team, started from scratch in a mile handicap, and won the race in 2m. 45s., with O Farndon, 55yds., second; E. Pickering, Boston, 130yds., third; A. Patrick, 150yds., fourth.

H. C. BACKUS won the ten-mile road race for members of the New Haven Bicycle Club, from East Haven Four Corners to Branford, and return, Oct. 13. His time was 42m. 30s. C. E. Larum was second, in 43m. 30s., and W. H. Hale third, in 44m. 30s.

WOODSIDE AND TEMPLE, of the American team, met J. Dubois and P. Medinger, of the French team, in a ten-mile race, for $125 a side, at Coventry, Eng., Oct. 10, the former pair winning by seven yards, Temple being first, and Dubois second. Time, 35m. 16⅘s.

FRED. WOOD was to have left Australia for England last month. Before sailing he was to have paid a visit to New Zealand, and also have made attempts to beat existing records at several distances.

BILLIARDS.

THE COMING TOURNAMENTS.

Regarding the two tournaments at cushion caroms, about which so much has been written and said during the past month, it now seems that New York is to be for the present a non-participant, it being arranged that the games shall take place at St. Louis and Chicago. Schaefer and Slosson will be at "scratch," with such players as Carter, Gallagher, Catton, Maggioli, Hatley, Thatcher, Moulds and Ives receiving a fair allowance of odds, with an entrance-fee of $50 each. The two Eastern players are magnanimously invited to enter, with no guarantee that there will be a tournament to follow in this city. The first tournament will probably take place at the Madison-street Theatre, Chicago, which, we are informed, Messrs. Hannah & Hogg have tendered for the event free of charge in the last week of November. Afternoon and evening games of 200 points up will be played. The entrance-money, the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company contribution, that of the room-keepers and the net receipts at the hall will be added together and then divided into five prizes, the winner to receive 45 per cent of the total amount, the second 25 per cent., the third 15 per cent., the fourth 10 per cent. and the fifth 5 per cent. Chas. Parker, W. P. Mussey and T. L. Cowles have been selected as managers of the Chicago tournament, and Wayman McCreery of St. Louis and Charles Parker as handicappers of both tournaments. Schaefer and Moulds returned to St. Louis on the 15th. The present outlook is that this city will not witness a tournament the coming Winter unless something intervenes or new arrangements blossom out of the Western games. Criminations and recriminations have been indulged in by the players of the East and West since the tournaments were first talked about; old issues of past games and tournaments have been resurrected and brought to bear as reasons why the two sections could not be brought together, as was at first proposed, in tournaments in New York and Chicago. The West seems to have had its own way in everything.

COMMUNICATION FROM MR. DALY.

EDITOR NEW YORK CLIPPER—Sir: Mr. Slosson and his confreres, in their desire to rush into print, should be a little more particular as to their facts before using people's names in their letters. In using my name in several of their communications they seem to have deliberately prevaricated, thus placing me in a false position before the public. I would be pleased if you would allow me space in your columns to give a statement of my connection with the proposed tournaments. In the first place, while Charles Parker and Eugene Carter were in New York they broached the tournament project. I believe with them that they would be good for the general interests of billiards, but being interested in three billiard-rooms I did not feel like leaving New York for more than one week to participate in any out-of-town affair. There was no date spoken of, or when the first game would take place, and as to that matter I will state that I do not care when the first game is played, provided it takes place after Nov. 25, when the amateur tournament in Brooklyn will be finished. My suggestion to limit the number of players to as few as possible was prompted by my confining the time it would call for to one week. This gives me an opportunity to hurry back to Boston. When Slosson and his confreres indulge in any more insinuations of dictators I would advise them to look in a mirror and see the genuine. Thanking you for publishing the above, I am yours respectfully. MAURICE DALY.

SPORTS ON STATEN ISLAND.—The half-dozen contests for medals between members of the Nassau Athletic Club of Brooklyn at Foley's Grove, Staten Island, on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 16, resulted as follow: One-hundred-yards dash—J. Murphy, scratch, second, 107½ft. Murphy's team in the tug-of-war won easily against Muldoon's.

BILLY DONOHUE, the unfortunate, met with another accident at Jerome Park on Oct. 11. He was riding Rupert in the first race, when the horse stumbled, or crossed his legs again as on the occasion, at the same track, when Littlefield was so badly hurt, and, throwing his rider, broke Donohue's collar-bone. This is the second time the bone has been fractured, and the injury will put an end to Billy's riding for the season. It will be remembered that the same jockey had a leg broken at Monmouth Park a year ago.

ANDERSON AGAIN.—John Anderson of Detroit, Mich., defeated John Malone of Palmyra, N. Y., in a race of one hundred yards, for $100 a side, in the latter place Oct. 12. The race was the best two in three heats, Anderson winning the first in 10¾s., Malone the second in 10¾s., and Anderson the third in 10⅕s. The winner has been matched to run John O'Holloran of Phelps the same distance for $250, and the race is to take place in Canandaigua on the 20th inst.

FRANK HART was the winner of the seventy-two-hours race, competitors traveling twelve hours daily, at the Rink in Philadelphia, closing Oct. 15. He covered the moderate distance of 376 miles 4 laps. James Albert was second, with 372 miles 6 laps; Cox third, 338 miles 1 lap; Sammy Day fourth, 317 miles 4 laps; J. C. Adams fifth, 291 miles.

GEORGE LITTLEWOOD, the English champion walker, arrived at this port last Friday, and left the same day for the Quaker City, to fulfill his engagement with James Albert to compete in a six-day contest at the Twenty-third street Rink, in that city, during Thanksgiving-week.

THE Harvard College Football Association elected the following officers Oct. 17: President, J. W. Wood, '88; vice-president, A. P. Butler, '88; secretary, J. H. Sears, '89; treasurer, B. H. Weld, '90. A new constitution, providing for meetings in the Spring of each year, was adopted.

THE Montreal Amateur Athletic Association will hold a cross-country team championship race on Oct. 29. Entries can be made by members of the New York, Manhattan and Toronto Athletic Clubs.

AMONG the events to be decided at the Fall games of the Yale College Athletic Association on Oct. 22 is a half-mile handicap run, open to all amateurs.

A LACROSSE MATCH was played in Toronto, Can., Oct. 15, by the Toronto and Shamrock clubs. It was a most exciting contest and resulted in a draw, each side winning three goals.

THE annual games of the Seventh Regiment will be held in the armory on Dec. 3, commencing at 8 P. M.

THE RACE to take place at Easton, Pa., Oct. 24 to 29, will be by instalments of eight hours a day, instead of as originally announced.

Nov. 26—Scullers' match, Wm. Beach vs. E. Hanlan, world's championship—Australia.

YALENCIANS AT THE OAR.

About a thousand persons gathered on the bank of Lake Saltonstall last Saturday to witness the class races between Yale College crews. The weather was clear, the air bracing, and the water in suitable condition for rowing. Result:

Single-scull shells, Cleveland Cup, 1½ miles, turn—W. G. Bushnell, '88, first, in 12m. 10s.; Irving Fisher, '88, second, in 12m. 12s., and E. B. Terry, '88, third, by fifteen seconds. It was a very interesting contest between the first two men, but the winner is the stronger.

Eight-oared shells, one mile—Sheffield Scientific School, G. P. Robbins (bow), G. B. Hoppin, A. L. Aiken, A. M. Coates, E. S. Islam Jr., H. Foster, G. S. Brewster (captain), W. G. Noyes (stroke), I. F. Plummer Jr. (coxswain), first, in 5m. 5s.; Freshmen, C. B. Davidson (bow), W. A. Simms, H. McBride, W. H. Butler, L. Heyworth, P. Aden (captain), F. W. Williams, C. F. Rogers (stroke), Nell Grey Jr. (cox.), second, by three lengths.

Eight-oared shells, two miles, turn—Academic Sophomores, R. L. Glisan (bow), C. T. Durant, N. James (captain), H. S. Burroughs, J. A. Hartwell, A. B. Newell, G. T. Burroughs, R. F. Harrison (stroke), R. Thompson (coxswain), first, in 11m. 42⅗s.; Academic Juniors, J. E. Donnelly (bow), J. G. Rogers, C. F. Kent, H. W. Vernon, A. H. Mosle (captain), W. S. Mason, G. H. Davidson, P. P. Wells (stroke), W. W. Ames (coxswain), second, after an exciting contest.

NEW SLIDE FOR BEACH.

William Beach, the champion sculler of the world, has had a new sort of sliding seat constructed for him by Thomas Spencer of Sydney, N. S. W., who is said to be the inventor thereof. It is thus described: "The seat is of colonial beech, the rails of vulcanite, the wheels and stops of brass, and all other parts of ash. The frame measures 27in. right out; on this are laid the rails, made of vulcanite, upon which the wheels travel. The wheels are of brass and measure 2⅝in. in diameter. Each wheel is a twin-wheel, that is to say, there are two wheels joined at the axle, and between the two wheels runs a piece of ash, which is laid partly over the vulcanite rail. Attached to the under frame of the seat on either side is a brass clasp, perfectly free and touching nothing, so that there is no friction unless some one tries to unship the seat, which the clasp prevents. The slide has a 20½in. movement, and the seat from the rails is 3¼in., while the whole thing weighs three pounds two ounces.

THE CHAMPIONSHIP.

John Teemer and Jake Gaudaur are both training assiduously for their coming tussle for the championship on Lake Maranacook, Me. Of course both men are confident of winning, but the appearance of the former has impressed good judges with the belief that he will most likely prove the victor. A private letter received from him by his brother last Saturday states he is in splendid condition, and that if he cannot defeat Gaudaur this time he never will be able to. He expresses the utmost confidence as to the issue of the struggle, and enjoins his brother to put his spare cash on him as soon as possible. After the race Teemer will start for London to arrange a match with George Bubear for the championship. The Sportsman Challenge Cup and $1,000 or $2,500 a side, over the Thames course, the race to take place about the time of the championship fight in Spain. Notice of the intended challenge to Bubear was cabled to England by the representative of The Sportsman last week. Bubear sailed for home by the Guion Line steamer which left on Thursday, Oct. 11, his departure being known to but few of his friends.

GEN. PAINE AND DESIGNER BURGESS, the America Cup defenders, were entertained by the New York Yacht Club at a complimentary dinner at Delmonico's on Thursday evening, Oct. 13. A number of prominent yachtsmen were present, who extended an enthusiastic welcome to the guests of the evening, and in speeches, after the choice viands had been disposed of, took occasion to compliment them without stint. Messrs. Paine and Burgess bore their honors modestly and responded briefly and pointedly to the compliments showered upon them. Among those present was George D. Schuyler, the only surviving owner of the old yacht America when she won the prized trophy, who is now quite as enthusiastic a yachtsman as he was in the long ago. During the evening Lander's Orchestra discoursed choice airs, and Ferrero's Vocal Quartet rendered appropriate selections.

PAID FORFEIT.—The match between James A. Ten Eyck of Worcester, Mass., and Harry Vail of St. John, N. B., which was to have been decided on Lake Quinsigamond, Mass., last Friday, ended in a forfeit by the latter. This was not through any fault of his, but was the result of an injury to his boat, several feet of the bow being broken clean off by accidental collision with a fishing smack, while Vail was taking a spin in the harbor of Portland, Me., last week. The latter's backers tried to secure a postponement for a week, so that they could obtain another boat from home, but the opposing side insisted upon a forfeit.

J. NUTALL, holder, won the one-hundred-yards swimming championship, amateur, at the Lambeth Baths, London, Eng., Sept. 26. W. Knowles was second by a yard and a half, the same distance before J. L. Mayger. The official time was 1m. 7⅘s., but as the winner took the plunge just before the signal to go was given, there is a likelihood that the figures will not be accepted as record by the Association. As the swimmer had not touched the water before the word "go" was uttered, and, as the time is better than had theretofore been accomplished, it is to be regretted that the start was not perfectly fair.

M. RAMBURE won the thirty-fifth contest for the amateur sculling championship of France, decided on the Seine recently. The race is open to all nations, the distance rowed is 3,000 metres, and the time was 10m. 47¼s. M. Lacoste was second, beaten two lengths, and M. Flouest third.

THE closing race of the Sagamore Canoe Club took place in the harbor of Lynn, Mass., Oct. 8. Ernest Belatty's Curfew won first prize, J. Center's Wenuchus second, and John Campbell's Raven third.

C. E. PFEIFFER has been chosen captain of the Harvard University crew, vice Henry Keyes, who is now abroad and declines re-election.

JAMES BELL, owner of the Scotch yacht Thistle, his wife, and other ladies and gentlemen who came to this country to witness the races for the America Cup, departed for home on the Anchor line steamer City of Rome on Oct. 12. A party of friends assembled to bid them adieu, and Mrs. Bell was the recipient of a large basket of cut roses from the New York Yacht Club, by whom Mr. Bell had been handsomely entertained at the club house on the previous evening. The cutter set sail for Scotland on Friday, her departure having been delayed twenty-four hours by the prevalence of strong easterly winds.

THE HARVARD UNIVERSITY BOAT CLUB held a meeting on Oct. 14, and elected the following officers: President, F. G. Balch; vice-president, E. C. Storrow; secretary, F. E. Parker, treasurer and manager, Thornton Woodbury. It was resolved that the officers should elect a graduate advisory committee, who should have unlimited control of the crew, the captain merely acting as their agent, as soon as possible.

THE University of Pennsylvania Boat Club held a meeting in Philadelphia Oct. 13, at which a resolution was adopted recommending to the standing committee on rowing of the Athletic Association that Ellis F. Ward be selected as the trainer of the University crew for the coming season.

STRAY TIPS.

.... One day some gentlemen were riding along a country road in Texas, when from the bushes they heard a continued rustling; parting the branches of the low growth on the roadside they beheld a rabbit fighting with a snake; the rabbit appeared to be trying to lead the snake away, not flinching when the fangs struck her own body. The gentlemen went to the rescue, killed the snake and found that the mother rabbit had been seeking to protect, with her own life, her wee baby that lay bleeding not far off. At first she feared that man had also designed upon her young, and was ready to match the strength of her mother love against them too. She soon understood, however, that she and her little one were safe, and her rescuers left her to cuddle and caress, after the way of mother rabbits, her little bunny.

.... The biggest fish captured in the vicinity of Hell Gate, East River, for some years, was taken by John Byrnes, who presides over the boathouse at the foot of Ninety-second street, this city, recently. It was a striped bass, and was taken while trolling. The fish made a desperate fight for life, and considerable time was occupied in effecting its landing, but it was finally secured, and upon being put to scale its weight was ascertained to be 19½lb.

.... Near San Francisco recently William Allen, a boy, shot and wounded a large hawk that was soaring above with a weasel in its talons. After it fell he hurried to pluck off its large feathers, when the bird suddenly threw its wings about his body and sank its beak ferociously into his cheek, while both arms were pinioned. Finally he released one long enough to take out a small pen-knife, with which he stabbed the hawk. The stabs had but little effect. Fortunately a man came along and rescued the young and almost exhausted hunter. He will soon be all right again, but a slight scar will remain for life. The hawk measured eight feet from wing to wing.

.... John Jamieson, owner of the cutter Irex, is reported to have given orders for the building of a vessel with which he proposes to make an attempt to carry off the America Cup. Also, that the designer, builder and crew of the challenging craft will be Irish.

.... The tournament of the Intercollegiate Lawn-tennis Association was held in New Haven, Ct., Oct. 12, 13, 14, the contestants including representatives of Harvard, Yale, University of Pennsylvania, Columbia, Williams, Trinity, Brown, Amherst and Lehigh. Result: Singles, final set—Sears of Harvard beat Shaw of Harvard, 6—8, 6—2, 6—2; Second place—O. S. Campbell, Columbia, beat Shaw, 6—1, 8—6, 6—2. Doubles—Sears and Shaw, Harvard, beat Hall and Campbell, Columbia, 6—4, 6—4, 6—3; second place—Campbell and Hall beat Thacher and Shipman, Yale, 6—3, 6—8, 6—2.

.... Henry Heydon, the oldest coursing man in the world, died recently in England, at the age of eighty-five years. He commenced coursing at the age of twelve years, and last season judged a coursing meeting, being in the saddle five hours.

.... Gen. James W. Husted recently killed a buck deer in the Adirondacks. It weighed 250lb.

.... The open tournament of the ladies' associate organization of the Delaware Field Club closed at Wilmington, Del., Oct. 17, with the following result: Singles—Miss Townsend defeated Miss Hansell in the final by 6—4, 6—4. Mixed doubles—Miss Townsend and Mr. Work beat Miss Bayard and Mr. Hilles 8—6, 6—0. Ladies' doubles—Miss Ford and Miss Hansell defeated Miss Townsend and Miss Ballard, 7—5, 6—1.

.... A sweepstakes race for Arthur Chambers' gold collar, offered for competition by dogs entered in the puppy sweepstakes of 1887, was decided at Echo Park, Philadelphia, Oct. 17. It was won by Little Mary with Lotta second, Ormonde third and Queen fourth.

.... Side saddles are slowly going out of fashion in England, and the man fashion way of riding horses is being adopted by many of the ladies. Side saddles have been in use since 1388.

.... The Prospect Park Lawn-tennis Association's annual Fall tournament was concluded on Oct. 17, the result being as follows: Gentlemen's singles—R. G. Langdon beat L. Heitcamp in the final set, 6—1, 8—4, 6—2. Second class, final round F. Gunnison beat R. Carrington, 6—4, 6—0, 6—1. Gentlemen's doubles, final round—R. G. Langdon and L. Heitcamp beat W. D. Jones and I. Strebigh, 6—1, 7—5, 7—5. Mixed doubles, final round—Miss Brush and J. C. Tatum beat Miss Richardson and F. Gunnison, 4—6, 6—4, 6—0, 6—1.

.... Two men were fishing on the Kinchefoone Creek, in Georgia, when one got a bite and saw his cork go down like a shot. He began pulling in and with the assistance of his companion succeeded, after a good deal of difficulty, in bringing out and killing a turtle that weighed 200 pounds.

.... One of the greatest living curiosities in human form is Riley Smith of the State of Indiana, who for years has wandered about Bloomington, most of the time dependent upon the township for a livelihood. He is remarkable as being the tallest man, the smallest about the waist, and having the largest feet of any person in the whole county. He is 6ft. 7½in. in height, measures 12in. about the waist, and wears a No. 17 shoe that by actual measurement holds 1¼ pecks of corn. He weighs 145lb. No shoe is made by the trade large enough by four numbers, and when a pair is demanded Smith's order is sent to a Louisville (Ky.) firm, where the shoes are made according to a measurement kept by them. Once each year a pair of plough shoes are ordered. They weigh almost 10lb. and are made of heavy leather and have broad heels. The shoes are 16in. long, the heel measure is 13¼in., the instep 10½in., and the ball 10in. Smith is a native of North Carolina, is forty-six years old, and emigrated to Indiana in 1860. He is married and has two children.

.... A hen in the yard of Rev. I. W. Waddell of Albany, Ga., after attending diligently to business for the usual period of incubation, came off her nest with seven little chicks one day last week. A few days afterwards she died, leaving the little chicks without a mother. But there was an old rooster on the place that seemed to take in the situation and at once went to the rescue of the motherless chicks. The brood now follows him around and he scratches for them and clucks to them throughout the day, and, leaving his former roosting place among the big chickens in the hen house, tenderly hovers them under his wing at night.

.... Thos. A. McIlvaine, a farmer living near Tuscola, Ill., had a novel experience during the past Summer with some young minks. Last Spring he found a nest of three young minks and determined to try the experiment of raising them along with a litter of kittens of about the same age. Accordingly he placed the minks with the mother cat, and was delighted to observe that the progress of nutrition went on as though the youngsters were "to the manor born," the only difference being that they often closed their teeth on their foster-mother in such an emphatic manner as to make her howl. As they grew older they wanted stronger food than milk, and provided themselves with meat by eating up the kittens of their foster-mother. Finally Mr. McIlvaine turned them loose to get their own living, but they destroyed his chickens to such an extent that he was glad to get rid of them.

THE RING.

THE LIGHT-WEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP.

The difficulty which threatened to effectually put an end to the match between Jimmy Carney and Jack McAuliffe, for the championship of light-weights, has been amicably adjusted, and if nothing more interferes there is a likelihood that they will have a passage-at-arms for the title. A meeting was held by the men and their principal backers in Boston, Mass., last week, at which certain changes were made in the original articles, and the men agreed to fight for the $4,500 now posted, between Nov. 21 and 23, within three hundred miles of Boston. Skin-tight gloves will be used, and the Queensberry rules, as applied to endurance contests, will govern. The men are to be confined to 133lb. and in case of failure to fight at the time appointed, the men are to weigh in the presence of the referee, at such place as he shall appoint, eight hours before entering the ring, as on the day first fixed for the fight. Each man is allowed ten persons only, with the exception of two seconds and two newspaper men, a side. The lovers of the P. R. are to be congratulated on the making of an arrangement that will probably result in a battle; but it is probable that the contest will not be of long duration, as McAuliffe, unfortunately, is not in good health, and it is dollars to cents that he will not be very much better on the day of fighting. His pluck in agreeing to fight under such circumstances is worthy of commendation, while the Carney party certainly deserve praise for their evident desire to do anything necessary to bring about the contest so long looked forward to by the fancy on both sides of the broad Atlantic.

MITCHELL'S LITTLE GAME.

Charley Mitchell takes occasion to say in a letter in The Sporting Life, London, that the belt to be fought for in Spain will remain in the custody of Jake Kilrain until the proper time arrives to hand it over to the stakeholder, thus ignoring the promise made by the donor of the trophy that the same should be placed in the keeping of the Pelican Club, London. He prefers that Jake shall have the benefit of the brilliant emblem of the world's championship for exhibition at and before the boxing shows they will together give in the United Kingdom previously to the fight. He also states that Kilrain has given him "full charge of all business on his behalf connected with the match, and that, although he will act with the representative appointed for Jake by the latter's backer in an amicable manner so long as Kilrain's interests are well cared for, any arrangement that may be arrived at between said representative and Mr. Fleming, representative for Smith, will be useless without his (Mitchell's) consent be also obtained." From this it would seem that Charley is somewhat afflicted with the disease popularly known as "big head." This expression of his intentions will doubtless lead to the giving of fresh instructions by the donor to his representative, who leaves for England on the Umbria on Oct. 29.

OFF FOR ENGLAND.

Ed. C. Holske, advance-agent for John L. Sullivan during the latter's forthcoming tour abroad, sailed for Liverpool on Saturday, Oct. 15 accompanied by Sam Blakelock, who visited this country as "Holske's Unknown," and who is to form one of the Sullivan Combination, returning to the States at the termination of the foreign tour, when he will be prepared to meet anyone at from 124 to 130 pounds in a finish fight. Blakelock made many friends by his modest demeanor and pleasing manners during his brief stay among us, and on the eve of his departure was presented by Holske with a gold watch and chain. Holske will arrange for the appearance in London of Sullivan, who is to leave on the 27th inst., accompanied by his manager and backer, Harry Phillips, a thoroughgoing Montreal sporting man, Jim McKeon of Boston, and Jack Ashton of Providence, the latter being engaged as Sully's sparring partner.

BROKE HIS ARM.—A fight with skin-tight gloves, under Queensberry rules, and for $250 a side, came off on Navy Island, in the Niagara River, Oct. 17, between Billy Baker of Buffalo, N. Y., and Pat Brennan of Troy. Both are heavy-weights, possessed of considerable pugilistic skill, and a good fight was looked for by the two hundred or so persons, mostly from Buffalo, present. Baker got first blood and first knockdown in the opening round, and in the second Brennan had the misfortune to fracture the small bone of his forearm by coming in forcible contact with his opponent's conk. He kept the knowledge of the injury to himself, however, and fought two more rounds, when he could not endure the pain longer, and gave up. On his return Brennan was arrested, Baker getting off on the Canadian side and making good his escape.

JIM SMITH, the English champion, and his manager, J. Fleming, were dined by the Marquis of Queensberry recently, and in replying to some remarks made by the noble patron of the P. R. Smith said that he had no ill will toward Jake Kilrain, and whether he won or lost he should not retain the slightest feeling against the American. Of course, he would do his best to win, and all he asked for was a fair field. He would readily consent to any arrangement that might be made in order to bring off the fight in a quiet and sportsmanlike manner. Manly words well spoken.

BILL WALLIS and Dan Howard contended with hard gloves to a finish for a gold medal at the rooms of the Golden Gate Athletic Club, San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 7. The former, who was eight pounds the heavier man, was outclassed in skill by his opponent, and after fighting twenty-three rounds he could not come to time, and Howard was declared the victor. The loser was repeatedly floored and very severely punished, while his adversary sustained but little damage.

JACK DEMPSEY polished off Billy Dacey in a four-round glove contest at Warren Lewis' Casino, Hoboken, N. J., last Saturday. He had done the same with Jim McHugh there earlier in the week. The form shown by the champion of middle-weights over the river indicates that he has recovered from his recent tussle with Mr. Sickness, and has naturally made him a strong favorite for his coming battle with Jack Regan.

AS EXPECTED, John L. Sullivan declines to pay any attention to the tardy challenge from Pat Killen, issued after the announcement of Sully's early departure, other than to say he will have time to attend to Killen and Cardiff upon his return from his European trip. After Sullivan's unaccepted offer of a few weeks ago Killen can find no fault with this.

MURPHY BEATS MCCONNELL.—A knuckle fight for satisfaction and a purse came off under the old rules in this city Oct. 14, the principals being Tom Murphy and Billy McConnell. They fought with determination in a ring of smaller than regulation dimensions, little skill being shown and Murphy suffering defeat in the seventh round.

JACK GIBBONS and Billy Keisler, iron-workers, with a slight knowledge of boxing, fought for $100, with hard gloves, near this city Oct. 12. They milled viciously, both sustaining severe punishment, and being freely bled, and Keisler being finally knocked out in the eighteenth round.

HART AND BELLEW, amateurs of Dublin, Ireland, made their professional debut Oct. 4 in a prize-fight for $100. Seven rounds were contested in the old style, when Hart received a knock-down blow, which decided him to give in.

TOM WARD of Chicago and Jack Conners of Cincinnati fought with two-ounce gloves, for fifty dollars a side, near Elmwood, O., Oct. 16, the latter being easily beaten in four rounds, all of which were in favor of Ward.

TOMMY WARREN and George Siddons of the West are matched to box eight rounds with hard gloves in Duluth, Minn., on the evening of Oct. 22, for a purse of $200 and the gate receipts, the winner to receive seventy per cent.

JAKE KILRAIN has been making friends by his quiet, unobtrusive demeanor since he arrived in England. He and Charley Mitchell were to appear at Dan Lowry's, Dublin, Ireland, Oct. 17.

THOMAS CASEY and Dan Murphy fought with skin gloves, under Queensberry rules, at Long Island City, L. I., Oct. 10, the former putting his adversary to sleep in the sixteenth round.

PETER JACKSON, the sable Australian champion, was to sail for England this month, intending to box anyone who will meet him.

CHESS.

To Correspondents.

J. C. PORDS, Olean.—We are much pleased to give what you require. The first problem you name is a masterpiece of its class, a gem of the first water—as difficult as "The Indian," and incomparably more perfect in construction. We are surprised that Mr. Loyd, so late as 1877, should have given it anonymously. Its author is M. Theo. Herlin, the renowned L'Anonyme de Lisle. We were the first to publish it in this country, April 7, 1855; but our tutor, Mr. Pindar, who presented it, did not then know the author. See below. The second problem, S. Loyd, rightly enough, we guess, calls "Shinkman's inimitable puzzle." See Enigma. The Herr Blathy End game was demolished to the tune of some one hundred moves by Herr Fachndrick, so we never took up our space with it. You may find the author's full solution in International Ch. Magazine, Vol. III (May, 1887), pp. 141-143; and its demolition, August, 1887, pp. 234-235.

K. D. PETERSON.—We are glad to have pleased you so well, and hope to keep on in the same way. Oh, yes! we are perfectly good friends in the direction indicated; in the words of some modern Democritus: "We don't harbor no malice nor nothin' agin' nobody."

P. M. H., Omro, Wis.—"Suimate" in chess means that a player having the move compels his adversary, said adversary's best efforts to the contrary notwithstanding, to give checkmate. Study attentively our Problem and Enigma No. 1,609 step by step by their solutions—especially the latter, in which you are left to find out White's (defending player) moves—and you will fathom the mystery.

21..K R-Q 2	K Kt-K 3	42..K-his B 2	K R + , and see our problem above. White accepted a draw, thinking he could not avoid perpetual +. Herr Richter, however, has shown a win. Still it must be borne in mind that in a tournament, with a time limit of twenty moves an hour, an ending that requires so much careful study could not be fathomed. This discovery must have cost many hours of severe application, and is well worthy the attention of all chess students. [That our readers may not be deterred from attacking it, we will add that the demonstration of a win is arrived at in eleven moves.]

(a) Teed vs. Steinitz, 1883, continued 5..Q Kt to B 3, 8, replying P to K B 3. Winawer first introduced 5..Castles in London tourney, '83; but we believe it inferior to Mr. Teed's variation, as Black can well answer 5..Q B to Kt 5; 6..P to K R 3 (ii), P to K R 4!

(b) 16..P to K B 5, apparently strong, leads to no advantage:

16..	Q to her 4	18..Q to K 3	Q × Q
17..P to K 6	Q-B 4 +	19..Q B × Q	Kt-B 3, etc.

(c) [The game is now at its culmination]:

BLACK (Blackburne).

WHITE (Schallopp).
Move made—22..Q to her B 3, and has the advantage. If Black 22..Q × R P; 23..Q × B 2d P, R to K B sq; 24..P to Q Kt 3, and the Q B, R? is out of play; if 22..Q × Q; 23..Q R × Q, Kt to Q sq; 24..B to B 3, etc; and if 22..Q to K 5; 23..Q R to Q 4, Kt × Q R; 24..K R × Kt, and the Queen is lost.

Our brother of The Times Democrat has done for us what we have neither time, patience nor temper to do—translated from The Sunny South into civilized English the pretty second game of the recent match between Prof. A. F. Wurm and I. Edward Orchard.

White to play and give mate in four moves.

(d) Steinitz plays 9..Q B to K 3, which seems much better than the text, or 9..P to Q B 4 sometimes played.

(e) 10..Q B to Kt 5, though not strictly feasible, was very tempting. Suppose Black reply 10..K Kt to B 3: 11..K B × P +, K to Q 2; 12..Q to her 5!, with a winning attack: or, suppose:

10..	P to K B 3 (ii)	13..B to his 7 +	K to Q 2
11..Q B × P	Kt P × B (?)	14..Q-her 6 +	K-Q B 3
12..Q × B P	K R-Kt sq	15..K B × R, and wins.

(f) The flaw, however, is here, instead of P × B:

11..	P to Q B 4!	14..Q × Q	Q B × Q
12..Q B × Kt (if)	Q × Q B	15..Castles	Q B × Kt,
13..Q-K 3	Q × K P	with equal game, B's of different colors, and a draw highly probable.

(f) 14..Kt to R 4 seems a desirable preliminary.

(g) Not 19..P to K 5, for then Q P × P; 20..B P × P, Q B × Kt; 21..Q × Q B, Kt to Q 6, winning K P.

(h) P to Q B 4: then, if 20..Kt to Kt 5, P to Q 4, appears to save time and trouble.

(i) Seems wholly unaware of his dangers; 27..R to Q sq was, apparently, his proper move. White now treats us to a beautiful wind-up.

ADDENDA.—In the Problem Tourney of The Columbia Ch. Chronicle it is announced that American competitions will be closed on Feb. 15, 1888; European competitions, March 15, following. Eugene B. Cook and F. M. Teed are named as judges. "Miron's Prize"—a copy of "Brevity and Brilliancy"—to the lady contributing the best problem..... The Ferris Tatnall match, so far, has run mostly in one direction—Mr. T., 1; Mr. F., 7. ..... The Baltimore and Wilmington Clubs have arranged a telegraphic match, five players a side..... Wilkesbarre and Scranton, Pa., have contested two team matches of four and six players a side, the aggregate result being 5½ for W., 4½ for S. Another contest is to be had..... Venowine's News reports Mr. Garner of Milwaukee as having beaten "Alech" three times, but being very reticent about the forty, or more, lost to the Turk..... Two games in the Bechler-Elliott match are reported, Mr. B. winning both..... On closing the Milwaukee engagement, his Turkship is booked for New Orleans. The liveliest kind of a campaign awaits him there..... The veteran and accomplished Gen. J. A. Congdon gives to beginners in chess the following excellent bits of advice in The Scranton (Pa.) Truth: "1. Learn to set your pieces exactly in the centre of the squares they occupy. 2. Let the Kts face each other. This will help to distinguish K Kt from Q Kt, an advantage in playing printed games. 3. Make every move mentally before touching a piece. When you have moved, examine it and see whether you saw all its effects before you made it. This will teach you to move slowly, and to think more deeply and clearly. 4. When your adversary moves, study that move till you know as much about it as he does. If you penetrate his plans he may not win the game easily or quickly. 5. Chess is won by those who think longest, hardest and best. Try to out-think your opponent. 6. It is advisable to play only one game per day. Record that and play it over, and mark where it could have been improved."

FOREIGN.—Mr. Bird's scheme for a "Jubilee Chess Congress" has secured so much influential support that it bids fair to become a success..... The score of J. D. Chambers of Glasgow, as a correspondence player, is something phenomenal. He reports, in the last Glasgow Herald, forty games in this manner, with a score—draw, 4; won, 36! But at last came a champion and avenger of all these beaten ones, and he himself was obliged to taste the cup of defeat for the first time. Miss Annetta Votruba of Vienna defended a "Scotch Gambit" vs Mr. Chambers, and compelled him to resign in thirty moves. We intend giving the game next week..... The first prize problem of the German Ch. Association Problem Tourney was victimized to the tune of a second solution by Herr Richard Mangelsdorf of Leipzig. Prof. Berger, the illustrious author, has rehabilitated the position, which appears in the last Field. In this tourney thirty-one four, and as many three move problems, were entered; seven of the former and eight of the latter were found faulty—and now comes the first prize itself faulty, though the award stands good, under the rules. Second prize (four-movers) ex æquo, Fr. Dubbe, H. v. Gottschall and Fritz of Geyerstam; third, Karl Kondelik. In the three move section—first prize, ex æquo, Rev. J. Jespersen and R. Adam; second, ex æquo, J. Obermann, J. Pospisil and J. Kotrc, combined; third, E. Krieger. There were three "honorable mentions" in each section. As will be seen, the honors were borne off by well-known and often victorious veteran masters..... The next tournament of the great City of London C. C. is spoken of as likely to have one hundred and thirty entrants..... Scotland has beaten Ireland in their great correspondence match by about two to one.

LIGHT, HO!—"The Morning Light is Breaking," as the old song hath it, for another purpose. The last number of The International Ch. Magazine brings us the name of the Hon. Chas. F. Buck of New Orleans as both a donor and subscriber to the Sixth Am. Ch. Congress. Now that so distinguished, popular and influential a gentleman has led the way, we may expect a generous list of supporters from the powerful and liberal New Orleans C. C. and W. Club. The rising tide of subscriptions having now passed the seven-tenths mark, The Boston Post recognises a sure financial success, not doubting that the conservative element will now come promptly forward and make up the required balance.

CHECKERS.

To Correspondents.

GEO. B. TRACY.—Matters pertaining to the game of checkers only find room in this column.

FRED FLYNN.—The position is rather neat, but the "stroke" too obvious. Please let us hear from you often, as we "like your style." Solution to Position 29 correct.

T. M. REDD.—Thanks for position, which is a fine end-game.

THE match for the championship of the United States, recently played at Pittsburg, Pa., between C. F. Barker and J. P. Reed has resulted in the defeat of Mr. Reed, with a score of: Barker, 5; Reed, 1; and 44 drawn. This establishes the fact that Mr. Barker is the stronger player. We wonder that a player of the calibre of Mr. Reed should allow himself to be beaten by a simple move that lost him the first game. But when a man is a little "over weighted" "foolish moves" seem liable to occur. The move that lost the game and the championship for Mr. Heffner was not at all difficult.

(a) This move, without reasonable doubt, loses the game, though a number of players have supposed that a draw is possible for White after making it.

(b) Here McFarlane plays 20 to 16, 11 to 20, 26 to 22, for a draw; but Black can win by 1 to 6, etc.

ANNOUNCEMENT

TO THE

Theatrical Fraternity in General.

Harris' Circuit of Theatres.

Owing to the very great success of the ACADEMY OF MUSIC, Baltimore, under my management, for the season of 1888-89 I intend to book the same line of attractions that play with me here at all my other houses, where there will be three matinees every week, on Mondays, Thursdays and Saturdays, and each house will be conducted in every detail after the same manner that the ACADEMY is now. I am thus enabled to give attractions five consecutive weeks—Baltimore, Washington, Pittsburg, Cincinnati and Louisville. As it is conceded by all that the ACADEMY OF MUSIC, Baltimore, is the handsomest and largest theatre in the country, and while I desire to play the same attractions at my other houses, there may be some managers who prefer to play Baltimore only, and I, of course, I am willing to book either for Baltimore alone or for the entire circuit. I respectfully solicit communications from managers of first-class attractions looking forward to booking time for the season of 1888-9. As it is impossible to reach all the managers throughout the country by letter, I take this means of making known my plans for next season, so that managers desiring to know further particulars will confer a favor by writing to the address below, where all letters will receive prompt reply. P. HARRIS,

Harris' Academy of Music, Baltimore.

FOREIGN.

SYBIL SANDERSON, the young Californian who made a successful operatic debut in Paris, Fr., recently, has been engaged for the Theatre De La Monnaie Brussels, Bel.

F. W. STECKHAN writes us from London, Eng., on behalf of John A. Stevens and himself, claiming that Chamberlyn & Harris, and no others, were responsible for the debts incurred through the failure of "A Secret Foe" in London. Chamberlyn & Harris assert exactly the opposite state of things. It's a question of veracity.

M. JULES BARBIER has been engaged as temporary director of the Opera Comique, Paris, Fr.

THE mother of Paul Merritt, the English playwright, died at Yorkshire, Eng., recently, aged seventy-three.

JOSEF HOFFMAN, the boy-pianist, gave his last concert in London, prior to his provincial tour, afternoon of Oct. 15. He appears in this city next month.

THE Nikita concerts in Berlin, Ger., are said to have been very successful.

JOSEPH MATRAS, one of the most popular of Vienna's comic-actors, died recently at a lunatic asylum, where he had been confined about five years.

SIG. FRANZ VETTA will soon leave London to join C. E. Locke's American Opera Co. in Philadelphia.

"THE RED LAMP" received its 100th consecutive performance in London, Eng., Oct. 13.

JOHN H. COBBE left England Oct. 15 for New York City.

ROBERT BUCHANAN'S comedy for the London, Eng., Haymarket is called "The Senior Partner," and is said to be from the French. A play by Sid. Russ, called "The Junior Partner," was done April 22 at the theatre (Berry Wood Asylum), Northampton, Eng.

EDWARD TERRY'S new theatre on The Strand, London, Eng., opened Oct. 17, and proved one of the handsomest in London. The safety of the patrons is afforded to an extent unknown in the older places. It is entirely constructed of concrete, bricks and iron. The exit doors are all fastened with self-acting locks, and every precaution is taken to avoid accident in case of fire or a panic. For instance, although the building seats but 850 people, the entrances are capable of holding 3,500, according to the Board of Works' measurement. An iron curtain divides the stage from the auditorium, and the house is entirely lighted by electricity.

ELLA RUSSELL will soon leave London to sing at the Imperial Opera, Moscow, Rus., as prima-donna.

EMMA NEVADA starts from London Oct. 19 to appear at the Lisbon, Spain, Grand Opera for the Winter.

COL. J. H. MAPLESON is to send Marie Roze, Sig. Foli and a company to Australia next season. In his company now touring Ireland are Minnie Hauk, Mme. Trebelli, Sigfried Arnoldson, Sig. Arditi and others. His continental company have returned to England.

MRS. ARMSTRONG GIBBS made her professional debut at Brussels, Bel., Oct. 13, under the name of Melva, as Gilda in "Rigoletto," at the Theatre De La Monnaie.

MRS. SCOTT SIDDONS sailed for the United States Oct. 15. She is to go on a lecturing tour here. She gave her farewell recital in London, Eng., 13.

PATTI has a fan on which are the autographs of all the sovereigns of Europe. Here are some: The Czar—"Nothing is so soothing as your singing." The Emperor of Germany—"To the ever-singing nightingale." Queen Christina—"To the Spanish woman from a queen who is proud to have her for a subject." Queen Victoria—"If King Lear is right in saying that a sweet voice is a precious gift in a woman, you are the richest of women." The Emperor and Empress of Austria have merely signed. M. Thiers, at the time he was President of the Republic, wrote, "Queen of song, I stretch forth my hand to thee."

THE THEATRE LIBRE, Paris, Fr., opened season Oct. 11.

"LA GRENOUILLERE" was the piece chosen to open the Nouveau Cirque, Paris, Oct. 7.

"LA SOURIS" is set down for production at the Theatre Francaise, Nov. 10.

M. GAYARRE, the Spanish tenor, is to appear this winter at the Odeon Theatre, Paris.

"LA GRANDE DUCHESSE," with Judic in the title-role, successfully opened the Varietes Theatre, Paris, Oct. 3.

"JARDIN DE PARIS" is the name of a new place of amusement in the Rue Vivienne, Paris. Musical attractions form the programme.

MLLE. ROUSSEIL, the once well-known French tragedienne, who lately entered a convent, in a plaintive letter addressed to M. Besson, a dramatic-critic, tells a piteous tale of her present condition, in the Convent of the Assumption at Lourdes. She is literally dying of cold, and asks her friend to sell some portions of her old theatrical wardrobe, and to send her the proceeds. The climate of Lourdes is anything but mild at the present moment, and the poor actress has had to traverse the mountains thinly clad, in order to assist at a pious fete with the sisters of the nunnery.

JACQUES OFFENBACH'S artistic and domestic goods and chattels were recently sold in the Hotel Drouot, Paris, Fr. There were fewer persons present than had been expected, but the artistic odds and ends were speedily disposed of. A curious ornament in porcelain, consisting of a group of children in Oriental caftans, all playing on musical instruments, was knocked down for $40 or thereabout. Among the other objects was a figure of Euterpe in bronze, given to Offenbach by the Emperor Napoleon III in 1856; a portrait of Rossini, with autograph; an organ in carved oak, several pianos, a broken violoncello, pictures by Detaille, Vibert and others, and a laurel wreath which was presented to the composer by the company of the Gaiete Theatre when Offenbach was manager of that establishment. The sale was a sad one, and it evoked many memories of the most popular composer of his day. Offenbach made a great deal of money, and he spent it as freely as he earned it. He was appointed conductor of the orchestra at the Theatre Francais—a sinecure, if ever there was one—and one evening when the musicians happened to be wanted their chef had taken them to play a waltz in the salon of a reigning beauty who had asked him as a special favor to gratify her whim in that manner. The escapade met with a rebuke from the manager of the Francais, but it did not prevent Offenbach from receiving his salary as chef d'orchestra of the leading theatre six months after he had left it to take over the Bouffes. Offenbach was in the habit of spending his holidays at Ems, where he met Meyerbeer. He was the only person with whom the composer of "The Prophet" condescended to speak, for in order to keep away the crowds of people who wanted to talk with him during his walks Meyerbeer placed a respirator on his mouth and pretended that his voice was gone. When the lively little Offenbach, however, came near, Meyerbeer lifted up his respirator and talked like a Frenchman. The memoirs of Offenbach, had they been written, would have been a mine of interesting details concerning the statesmen, the musicians, and the literateurs of the Empire, as well as an authentic history of those operettas which have attracted crowds wherever they have been played.

A GREAT BOOM.
CHAS. A. LODER'S
HILARITY CO.
At the Standard Theatre, St. Louis.
Firmly Established and Permanently Placed Before the Amusement-going Public.

ENDORSED BY LEADING WESTERN MANAGERS AND NEWSPAPERS.

ST. LOUIS PRESS EXTRACTS:

"HILARITY" is providing an unlimited amount of fun at the Standard, and is really one of the funniest things on the stage.—ST. LOUIS GLOBE DEMOCRAT.

The Standard had CHAS. A. LODER'S "HILARITY" CO. last night in a play of MR. LODER'S own manufacture, entitled "HILARITY." As the name indicates, the purpose of the play is to induce people to laugh, and the audience last night did indulge in a great deal of hilarity, as there was abundant cause for mirth in the funny situations of the three acts and the amusing work of the company. MR. LODER, as the sausage maker and clarionet-blower, continued to extract a great deal of fun from his part. The house was filled and in an uproar all evening.—THE REPUBLICAN.

"HILARITY," a new farce-comedy, by CHAS. A. LODER, was produced at the Standard, with the author in the principal role of a German sausage-maker and musician. The piece is constructed only to make fun, and is brightened by a host of clever people.—POST DISPATCH.

"HILARITY," a funny hit at the Standard last night. There is just enough plot to introduce a number of very funny people in loud crous situations.—THE CHRONICLE.

CHAS. A. LODER in "HILARITY" has a good money-making attraction. It is after the style of Hoyt's plays—rough and tumble—but it gets there just the same.—SUNDAY SAYINGS.

LODER'S "HILARITY" COMPANY held forth at the Standard all week to very good business. The play is very funny and has caught on.—SUNDAY CRITIC.

NEW, NOVEL AND ORIGINAL STAGE-SETTINGS FOR THE THREE ACTS WHICH WE CARRY.
